Endnote: Am I crazy, or maybe not so crazy after all?	93

Warning: In my story, you will encounter many things that are taboo. In fact, I am making a claim that should not be taken lightly, yet I think I am allowed to make this claim. I give full throttle and go against the established order. I am a rebel who must re-educate humanity about what reality truly is.

My book is about spirituality, not religion. I also don't have any special superpowers. I cannot walk on water, heal the sick with my spit, but I might be able to raise the dead.

I made this book for free because it is my goal to reach as many as possible. I am not into money. One of the reasons this is free, is because it is your right to know how this reality works. Who am I to put a price on the truth? Who am I to let people unnecessarily suffer from bipolar disorder, just for a few coins? I am not like that, so you get everything for free, and I will share you all my discovered secrets as a shaman.

As far as I know, I am just a person of simple flesh and blood, who tends to have a simple life, yet nothing in my life is simple. I won't give you superpowers, but I will give you the key to happiness. Everyone will initially think I'm crazy, and they're absolutely right. I would judge the same if I were in their shoes, but in writing this book, I fully live up to my claim.

The question that everything revolves around is: Am I crazy, or maybe not so crazy after all?

Don't shoot the fucking messenger!

My name is Elmer. I'm a natural-born shaman, and that's a problem. I live in the Netherlands, and there the shaman has no right to exist. For more than 36 years, I have walked around with an identity that I didn't know of. For many years, I experienced the most strange things, and every time the question arose: Why me? Why not someone else? What makes me so special? At the age of 36, I found the first clue towards my hidden identity and then the ball slowly started rolling. I did an analysis on myself, and the result is sick, even for my standards.

With this book, I give you a complete look into the life of a shaman, or in other words, a pure Serpent Bearer. I have decided to share most of my experiences with you. I play open game. I know what the general opinion is in this world society, and it comes down to going against everyone. It all leads to conflict, and I have no other way out. Yet, you do not have to mourn for me because I was born to deal with conflict.

I am a pure Serpent Bearer and I have got two reasons that indicate, that I am a shaman. The first reason, are all the different experiences. I have four different psychic abilities, and these play a very decisive role when it comes to my perception of reality. The difference between a psychic and a shaman is the following. A psychic has some form of control over them, and as a shaman, I have nothing under control, experiences with psychic abilities, they come and they go. The hallmark of the shaman is that everything revolves around gaining as many experiences as possible, in the broadest sense of the word. You don't get to experience a small part of reality, no, you get to process the full story. Nothing in life remains secret for me.

The second hint is hidden in astrology. It turns out that I represent a constellation that no longer exists. I would also find out that a certain religion has done its utmost, to erase this constellation from history. Yet, they were only partially successful. This constellation can be found in other ancient cultures all over the world. In this case, it's all about the zodiac sign of the Serpent Bearer. The Serpent Bearer is all about the afterlife, psychic abilities, and strives for the ultimate truth. Everything revolves around making a dignified and fair judgment. There is only one thing that matters, and that is the truth.

All my paranormal experiences together, are part of my universal education. This means that I have been purely guided all this time, by following my feelings and impulses. Every time I chased this feeling, it gave me something special. So this entire book was made possible by my feelings and impulsiveness. All information in this book has been completely put through the wringer. My goal is to be as accurate as possible. I am very open, honest, and direct when it comes to spirituality. I don't make it more beautiful, and I don't make it uglier either. I keep everything extremely businesslike.

However, I am faced with quite a task. I have to go against the established order with everything. I'm also a rebel who doesn't make it easy for others. I dealt with conflict all my life. I learned how to fight back. Though I am up for a difficult mission. My first challenge is to break the taboos surrounding my being. As a shaman, I exist. My second challenge is that I have to bring everything back to life. For me, everything revolves around death and resurrection. Symbolically, I have to resurrect the dead. I have to resurrect the Serpent Bearer, astrology, numerology, and even the Gods.

In this book, I start with the negative. I want to be clear that I am someone who has suffered a mental disorder. I may carry an important title, but I still had to fight hard to earn my title. My path in life is relentless. So I start off by showing my weak side. At the age of 24, due to a lot of stress, I contracted a bipolar disorder. I want to tell you what exactly that means, and how I managed to overcome this disease. My knowledge might help others.

Then I will move on to the subject of the afterlife. This is where my universal education began. In three years' time, I would gain an extreme amount of experience in this area. Even many years later, I still occasionally get a hint from the dead that they are there. During this period, my abilities were also completely unleashed. There was no pause at all. It is also the gift of clairsentience, which would tear me to my core, physically and mentally. It paved the way for my first serious burnout.

I would like to conclude my biography by sharing you my vision. I have studied all the experiences for years and I had to think hard and search for answers for a long time, before I found all the pieces of the puzzle. To be honest, I've been writing this book for over 9 years, and every time I rewrite the book, I make a new discovery. In a sense, I was already starting my final exams, even though my studies were just beginning. However, now I have reached the point where I have unraveled everything.

Once I have discussed my biography, it is time for me to focus fully on the forgotten zodiac sign of the Serpent Bearer. I am one myself, and by analyzing myself, I got to discover everything about this lost identity. In this chapter, I'll start with the basics of astrology, and explain why the Serpent Bearer is still a part of astrology and numerology.

Then I'll go into my 2 1 3 experience, and show what it all led to in the end. In this case, it is a pattern that kept recurring, over different periods. I was thought to be crazy, but in retrospect I wasn't as crazy at all. I was sharp and observant, and I never doubted my own eyes for a moment. In this topic, I teach about the holy trinity.

Once I get that topic out of the way, it's time for numerology. Numerology is completely unknown to many today. It is completely dead, so it is up to me to fully restore this lost knowledge, and I even offer you something extra in the form of my formula. My formula is the birth chart of numerology. To conclude the spirituality section, I will end with my battle against religion as a whole. I'm not going to hold back in this area. It is war!

During my universal training, I have made numerous discoveries, that all relate to the Serpent Bearer. I want to talk about ancient cultures and our true past. I conclude the book with an analysis of myself, in which I use all my techniques.

Before you start reading, I would like to say that there is a considerable chance that you will have a conflict with my view. It cannot be otherwise because nothing is what it seems to be. My advice is to let go of everything you thought you knew, and start over. It is time for a so-called reset. My book is very much like being a Bible, and yet this has never been my intention. My goal was just to share all my findings, and it automatically led to that result. I show you the true way to spirituality.

From there you have to do it all yourself, by taking the initiative. In my opinion, you must experience and discover things yourself. I know, better than anyone, that personal experience has much more value than any book. My message goes against many existing ideas, yet I think I have largely exposed the true reality.

The last thing I want to add, is something you may not have missed. Somehow I can't allow the music to speak for me. It's some kind of urge that I can't let go of. Every time I delete it, an hour later I'm there adding everything back. It's an extra layer, and it's like it has to be that way. I let the music speak for my feelings. I'm all about the thunder and lightning gods, hardcore happens to be my thing. The music represents my feeling of anger and gives me fighting spirit. Each song has been chosen very specifically, which shares my message. If you don't like my taste, I recommend that you leave the hyperlinks alone. It's time, we begin.

The Wounded Healer.

The wounded healer.

As a shaman, I represent a wounded healer. The bottom line is that I have suffered from many illnesses, mentally and physically. There was a period when one thing had not yet ended, and another had already begun. For many years, I strung everything together from illnesses. I even had contracted glandular fever, but I didn't realize it. I used to always keep going without stopping. I also experienced Bell's Palsy. What it comes down to is that a main nerve in your face becomes paralyzed. It runs through a small bone channel and if it becomes infected, that part of your face no longer transmits information. I was paralyzed on one side of my face for 6 months, and it never fully recovered. If you look closely at my face, you will notice that I have two faces. I call it the sun and moon side. One side of me appears to be happy and cheerful, the other gloomy and angry, yet the difference is difficult for most people to perceive. It just depends on what you see. For some the glass is half full and for others it is half empty. Because of this paralysis, I learned, to distinguish the difference between body and soul.

As a Serpent Bearer, I am all about paranormal abilities. While I was sick, I had many strange experiences with the paranormal. The dividing line between what was real and what was not, was a struggle for me. I mentally resisted these experiences for many years, only to discover that I had not hallucinated anything. Everything was real.

I won't share my entire history regarding my illnesses, but there are two things I want to share. Both things are part of the bipolar disorder. I discovered that you can stabilize this disease. Part of this bipolar disorder, is the flight of thoughts. It may sound very innocent, but it was the most extreme disease I have ever suffered. For many psychiatrists, this flight of thoughts, is a completely unknown territory. I therefore feel compelled to explain everything in obvious language.

After the flight of thoughts, I fell into a four-year-long depression. I also managed to kill this one in the end. After killing my depression, I experienced a period of manic episodes. It took me 3 years of battling, after which I was completely stable again. I don't experience any ups or downs, I am one straight line. What is very striking, is that I can remember little of this negative period. I've experienced it, but my brain has little memory of it. In a way, I am happy with it, since it no longer slows me down in my struggle. I just carry on, as if nothing had ever happened.

My flight of thoughts.

It was at a time when I had two jobs and was studying at university. Shortly before the end of my study, the paranormal went completely crazy. I had a gift that connected me to someone else, and it took up a lot of energy. I had no idea how the spirit connection started, let alone how to turn it off. For three months straight, I have been connected to that person. I received many warnings, and this continued into my dreams. I didn't have a single moment of peace. Shortly after, when I finally completed my study, I sank into a massive burnout. All the stress of my study led to my downfall. I was literally handed over the diploma and then all the pressure of performing fell away from me, with just a snap of my fingers. I fell into an instant burn-out.

In addition to this severe burnout, the worst thing that could happen, was getting into the flight of thoughts. After three months of being connected, I finally came to the conclusion that psychic abilities do exist. In fact, I had them myself. There was no point in denying it anymore. This was the moment when I became furious. I felt cheated by everyone around me. Everyone had been lying to me for years that psychic abilities didn't exist, and now I had them myself. This forced me to throw away everything I thought I knew and start all over again. I also realized that besides psychic abilities, many more things could be possible in life. I then started searching for information obsessively, and absorbed so much information in a short amount of time, that my brain literally froze.

To explain this disease, I will use a metaphor. The computer has a short and long-term memory, the same applies to our brains. My brain got stuck because the short-term memory did not transfer anything over to the long-term memory. The problem was that information wasn't being processed, and it kept piling up. Normally, the computer freezes, and you make a hard reset. The human body, doesn't have this safety button, and I went completely crazy.

For a year and a half, I was in a state, with a severely exhausted body, where I was struck by an illness that did nothing but further deplete my mental and physical condition. They say it was a drop in the ocean, but my life energy had already evaporated before it could touch the water. Allow me to explain it again by using a metaphor. My body could only supply eight volts, but the disease kept constantly asking for twelve volts. I literally broke down completely and no one around me noticed. The burnout was not noticeable, due to the busy behavior that was caused by the flight of thoughts. They were two completely contradictory signals. During this period, I returned to work too early and continued on by not accepting my physical boundaries. I wanted to prove myself to society.

Another characteristic of the flight of thoughts, is that your thoughts move rapidly. There is also no brake. By the time you finish the first sentence, the next story has already started in your head. Information in short-term memory keeps repeating itself. The only way out, was to talk endlessly in gibberish. It was the only outlet I had. Yet, I experienced the entire illness very consciously. My body was not functioning properly, but my soul was very aware of everything. I simply couldn't pretend otherwise. I have seen everyone around me lose confidence. However, I couldn't do anything to stop it.

Everything changed when I ran into an old friend on the train, on my way to work. I was unable to stop talking, and I was freaking out. I saw the relationship break down and everyone around me went crazy because of my extremely busy behavior. When I got off the train, I realized that this relationship was also breaking down. At that moment, I was completely done with that damn disease. It's the same day, and I'm happily at work. Suddenly, a feeling came over me, telling me that I should go home and write down the flight of thoughts. I immediately went to my manager and was given permission to go.

When I got home, I opened a text document on the computer. Before I started, I made a promise to myself that I had to write down everything that was going through my head. I ordered to allow myself to forget everything I was writing down. I started typing immediately and didn't pay attention to any language errors. All kinds of gibberish came out, and I was typing non-stop to keep up with my thoughts. I would end up with 12 pages of information. I closed the document and deleted it. That was the moment I finally experienced a sense of peace, for the first time in 18 months. I had found the reset button!

The next day, the same thing happened. I was back at work and I got that feeling again. This time I went home without permission and started writing again. I made myself the promise again that I could forget everything. This time, 15 pages of information came out of my short-term memory. When I closed the document, it was the moment I cured myself of the flight of thoughts. My head was completely empty. In fact, since then, I rarely have spontaneous thoughts. Instead of extreme hustle and bustle, everything is now extremely quiet. I've gone from one extreme, to the other. In total, I had 27 pages of gibberish in my head, A4 size, font Arial 11. I survived the extremely difficult test, and I healed myself by following an inner feeling. It was also the first moment that occurred, to recover from the underlying burnout, yet I continued to work out of a sense of duty. I wanted to do my part. I wanted a normal life. It was the stupidest thing I could have ever done because now I'm broken for good.

The flight of thoughts would cause me a lot of damage. The only information that made it through to my long-term memory was not stored chronically. Every memory was mixed up. I also lost all sense of time. If I wanted to tell a story, I would start in the middle, then remember that something important happened before, and then end it, and start another story. This pattern later returned during an entirely different experience. My flight of thoughts meant that I had to learn to communicate again. I could no longer speak or write a normal sentence after the illness. At that time, I was also full of enormous anger. No one wanted to understand my situation. I'm still recovering in my communication, and it will never be completely healed. I experience many problems with grammar. Sentence structure is where I fail. Still, I decided to take up the challenge by writing a book.

What it all boils down to, is that I wrote off this disease by listening to an inner feeling. There was no medication involved, I had to endure everything raw. Yet, the misery was still far from over.

Self-knowledge is power.

When I cured myself of the flight of thoughts, I immediately had to deal with four years of depression. I have done everything I could to get rid of this disease. Nothing seemed to help until the moment, I woke up with a strong feeling. It was an urge. It was a moment where I put astrology to the ultimate test. When I woke up one morning, I had a strong inner feeling telling me that I should study my constellations and put them together as one. The thought was: If they are happy, then so am I. As you can tell, I was completely desperate and tried out everything. I immediately started working it out on paper, and it would lead to a miracle.

My sun is in Sagittarius, my ascendant is in Gemini, and my moon is in Scorpio. When I started looking into it seriously, I noticed that I was always a Sagittarius or a Scorpio. I wavered between extremes, and I was never both at the same time. My Gemini ascendant, had no existence. I was completely ignorant of my true nature. I then came up with a profession that would do justice to all three zodiac signs simultaneously. I literally put them together as a team. Everything I would do, would benefit all three of them in the same moment of time. This was also the moment that I would embrace the paranormal for the first time in my life, instead of fighting against it. I gave up my will to have a normal life.

I labeled myself a paranormal investigator, and then a miracle happened. My four years of depression was gone, with the snap of my fingers. The difference in my feelings was so incredibly radical, that it seemed as if I had never been depressed all those years before. I was full of energy and felt great. The effect was actually as if someone pressed a button to turn on the light. The effect was extremely radical and direct. I saw it as an indication from the universe, that I was finally on the right path.

You understand that I have embraced astrology ever since. I was able to discover its true value. Astrology can heal people from depression. It was again an inner feeling that was at the root, that cured me of my mental illness, just like with the flight of thoughts. Both occurred, during a moment of pure desperation. As you can see, the basic knowledge of astrology, has had a healing effect on my mental state. I have never been depressed since. I resolved my inner war and was rewarded for it. If the basic knowledge of astrology works for me, then it can also work for you. Self-knowledge is power.

With the knowledge I have now, I see what the problem was. During that bad period, I did not use my true qualities. I didn't do justice to the constellations. I wasn't making the most out of the gift, I was given. I actually resisted it because I wanted a normal life. By correctly applying the knowledge of astrology, I was rewarded. I finally accepted my gift and the strange life I was experiencing.

As you can see, I had to earn my stripes through a lot of mental struggle. I even had to survive very hard lessons and ended up in a world where everyone was against me. The hard truth is that there are hardly any people on Earth, who can or dare to stand in my shoes. I am also far from popular, but that is not my aim, I do what is expected of me. I do what needs to be done, even if I have to end up as a scapegoat. I have to stand up to the rest of the world, as a one-man army. In that sense, what I do is crazy, but I still go for it in good faith.

It is a matter of all or nothing!

The afterlife.

The afterlife and reincarnation.

I have had many experiences with the afterlife. It literally seeks me out. For a long time, I have had a profound interest in the afterlife and its workings. I constantly had to work with the smallest details. By bringing all the details together, a story emerges.

The first thing I want to talk about are the dimensions. The life we lead on Earth has two layers to its existence. We have the dimension of life and in the background there is the dimension of death. As living people, we are not aware of the existence of the hereafter, but the hereafter is aware of our existence. We don't see or hear them, they do see and hear us.

The afterlife also has two outcomes. You remain behind on Earth as a soul, or you enter a portal that returns you to your true origin. The fact that the soul of man remains on Earth was already known to the ancient Egyptians. Yet, they were mistaken. Only bad people remain on Earth. They remain stuck in the life they have led. They often continue their negative behavior and terrorize the living. The afterlife on Earth, is a form of a prison or hell.

Souls who enter the portal completely disconnect from the life they have led. They come into an environment that is purely all about love. People who have had a near-death experience indicate that this feeling is strong and overwhelming. People also describe having 360 degree vision. They see everything around them, which indicates that the soul is no longer limited by the eye sockets. Thoughts are telepathic. Everyone can read and hear your thoughts, but the same also applies the other way around. In the heavenly paradise, there are no secrets. Everything is known to everyone. There is even an archive, where you can look back on all the lives you have led.

The question is: What exactly is life? This Earth has many life forms. One and a half million different animal species have already been discovered, and we still have a long way to go. This also means that we, as souls, can experience life in many different ways. We can be reborn as an animal or as a plant, should we as a soul choose to do so. Every being brings its own unique experience. I see life as an excursion for the soul, with many options.

Before souls reincarnate, they are sometimes given an overview of their upcoming life. They are assigned a script and pick the name they want to bear in life. Everything revolves around free choice. For people who remain behind on Earth, fate is decided. They ultimately have to deal with karma. What you sow, is what you reap. It therefore happens that some souls remain stuck in a negative spiral because the soul refuses to adapt. Everyone ultimately gets what he or she deserves. In the afterlife, again the rule seems to apply: It is all or nothing.

Shadow man.

My first conscious experience with the afterlife, took place around the age of 21. My uncle had just died, and I temporarily moved into his apartment until it was sold. I watched a soccer tournament over the summer with some friends. We decided to light up a joint, and I wasn't used to that at all. After inhaling twice, my world was already starting to become blurry. I felt like I was living in the 70s. Even the soccer on television had that 70s style. During the match, I got tired and decided to close my eyes. The moment I closed my eyes, was the moment I heard a loud noise screaming into my right ear. I immediately woke up and suspected the person sitting next to me. I quickly saw that he was fully engaged in the match, and I quickly realized that it couldn't be him. Then I was like: Whatever! I closed my eyes again, and again I heard that scream, roaring loudly into my right ear. The sound was very similar to a gas burner, but it was more chaotic and raw. It was a kind of noise that cannot be produced by humans or animals. When I woke up again, I saw, out of the corner of my eye, that a black male figure was standing at the doorway. I could only see the silhouette. It was a pitch-black energy, which did not allow any form of light to pass through. It was completely solid in that sense. I immediately pointed towards it and alerted my friends to the fact that there was something standing at the doorway. Of course, they saw nothing and dismissed it as nonsense. They thought I was imagining it, until they had to deal with it themselves.

The experience with the shadow man, forced me to slowly become familiar with the afterlife and its workings. Yet, at that moment, the penny did not drop. I didn't pay attention to all the things I was experiencing. I kept going on with life, as if nothing had happened. When it comes to ghosts, I always thought they were transparent and white. In my experience, the figure was solid black. I know, from my own experience, that these are very negative beings.

As I already indicated, the afterlife on Earth is Hell. It is a neutral area, dominated by the negative. By neutral, I mean that beings from other places in the universe, can thrive in ours. When people talk about angels, they automatically talk about a high vibration. When it comes to the afterlife, demons are common and angels don't seem to exist. Rumor has it that angels cannot handle the low vibration, and run the risk of losing themselves. For angels, there is simply too much at stake. When it comes to demons, they feel at home and know no enemy. When it comes to the definition of angels and demons, these are beings that come from another planet or star. In other words, they are alien souls.

When it comes to demons, they seem to have a true hatred of all living things. Demons also possess psychic abilities. They are also very capable of taking over the body of a human or animal. They have a tendency to drive you crazy. The goal is to get you killed and deny you access to the portal. They seem to rely on the energy of the soul. They also attack you when you are at your weakest. They come to visit you, especially during your sleep. It is the moment when you are completely defenseless.

Demons are able to influence dreams, but they can also cause sleep paralysis. Demons are not necessarily tied to a place, they can cling to your body or soul. The latter means that it always travels with you, wherever you go. Many demons, by the way, have been summoned through dark rituals. The problem with this is that they are invited, but have no expiration date. In other words, they can thrive here forever at their will, and we have no ability as humans or as souls, to banish them or send them back to where they came from.

The problem with Christianity is the fact that it is not a religion of God. The title, Lord, refers to the God of destruction. In Hollywood films, the symbol of the cross is used to banish demons. In reality, the opposite happens. Demons are not afraid of this symbol at all, which is evident from the fact that they can freely manipulate it. There are many sources where the cross is turned upside down by an evil entity. If the symbol did possess power, demons would stay far away from it, but this does not happen.

However, the true symbolism behind the turning of the cross is unknown to many. The church has banned astrology, yet the symbol of the cross comes from astrology. The cross symbolizes the human body. When you bury someone, you put a cross on the grave to indicate that there is a body buried beneath. By turning the cross upside down, you indicate that you are an antibody. In short, everything must die. The next problem is that the symbol does not make the demons weaker, but rather puts them on steroids. So it makes it more powerful. It once again indicates that the Christian and Catholic faith, is not focused on the positive in life.

If you come into contact with a demon, know that no one can help you. In religion, the claim is made that Jesus was capable of many wonders of the world. Everything the Bible claims Jesus could do is something that cannot be imitated by any living human being. According to the Bible, exorcism is such a wonder of the world. In short, the church indicates that it cannot help you with your problem, unless they are capable of world wonders themselves.

Sleep paralysis.

In life, I have often dealt with sleep paralysis. I had this experience when I was very young. I remember waking up and not being able to move. I was also unable to scream, only a soft squeak came from my throat. I didn't think much of it and closed my eyes, falling straight back to sleep. The next morning I woke up, I was completely rested. For this reason, I never thought much of it because I never observed anything.

While staying in that apartment, in a 6-month period, I woke up in sleep paralysis at least three times. I remember waking up, and I could still hear the people talking in the living room. I wanted their attention, so I tried to scream, but a soft squeak came from my throat. I then tried to get their attention by banging on the wall. I wasn't able to lift my arm no higher than an inch from the mattress, and instead of pounding, I gently caressed the wall. I couldn't get their attention, so I gave up and went back to sleep.

A year later, something completely extreme happened, which changed my perspective forever. The creature had chased me to my parents' house. This time too I woke up in a sleep paralysis, but in this case, I felt someone sitting on top of my stomach, with its full weight. It was completely invisible. I was also grabbed by my wrists and pressed against the mattress. When I woke up, my wrists were next to my head. It had apparently prepared me first, before attacking. When I realized something invisible was sitting on top of me, the adrenaline shot right through me. I then focused on my right arm to break free. I used all the strength I had to lift my arm. I came up very slowly, and then it let go after three seconds. The weight was gone, and I had broken myself out of sleep paralysis. By the way, this was the last time I had to deal with sleep paralysis. More than 15 years have passed, and I have never experienced it since. Apparently, I'm not an easy victim.

However, I would still like to say something about sleep paralysis and its scientific explanation. The scientific explanation has been completely fabricated. It may sound logical, but that doesn't make it true. It is also known that science is against anything that has to do with religion, but the afterlife has nothing to do with religion at all. Life consists of the material and the spiritual, also known as body and soul. The conflict between the two factions, is nothing more than a human creation. In nature, both go very well together, without conflict.

The spiritual clone.

Besides a demon, I've also had to deal with something entirely different. I call it a poltergeist. In this case, it is something that I created myself. After my studies, I went through a very dark period. I endured many illnesses and no one was open to my story and my personal problems. At that time, I was better off talking to a wall, since it doesn't give shitty comments back. I had so much misunderstanding, frustration and intense anger inside of me, for a long time in a small space, that the energy started to build up. At a certain point, it started to have a life on its own. I had accidentally created a spiritual clone, due to my intense anger.

I lay in my bed and before going to sleep I always watched television. In this case, it was an old television. If you turn off these old televisions, you will hear them buzzing with static discharges. It is exactly that sound that my poltergeist took advantage of. Every time I turned off my television, the pattern started. This lasted for three months, until the penny started to drop. I finally noticed that it was always the same order. It went the same clockwise circuit around my room, ending at the headboard of my bed.

When the penny dropped, I decided to be smart and go for the ultimate test. When I turned off the television, I heard a static discharge coming from my computer. This was the go-ahead and I started commanding it. I said: Now hit the cupboard, and a tap immediately followed. Now my radio, and there was a tap. Now my television, and a tap followed. I ended with: And now a tap above my head! That was the moment as if someone struck with a sledgehammer. A huge bang followed. I was shocked, but instead of fear, I was overcome with pure anger. I was sitting right next to my bed, I was extremely furious and said: I know what you are, and I am not afraid of you. If I die, I'll be just like you, and then you and your ass are mine! It very much seems that during this outburst of anger, I had taken the spiritual clone back inside of me. Since then, I've never heard anything about it again. The activity stopped immediately.

The spiritual clone is something I never heard about and yet, it is extremely common. I have noticed that people who are in poor mental states often leave a spiritual footprint. If you have an environment where you put all those kinds of people together, think of a mental institution or prison, then you also understand that at some point it will naturally become haunted. So in this case we are not dealing with ghosts, but with negative residues. Such an environment inherently attracts negative spirits. They feel at home within all the negativity and feed off it.

When it comes to ghosts, you can't banish them. No one can change the final judgment except the Gods. However, when it comes to residues, you can purify these build-ups using sage. In short, you cannot solve the problem, but you can prevent it. Every mental institution and prison is a rotten place in a spiritual sense. By not purifying it, we curse the whole thing and the environment. This rule also applies the other way around, places with an atmosphere of positivity, can also influence us. People whose aura is open, can sense these spheres.

Attempted takeover.

The sleep paralysis is a kind of takeover, but I have also experienced this differently. This experience happened in my uncle's apartment during the month of December. It was an incredibly cold day. It was well below freezing, and it was starting to get freezing in the apartment. I decided to turn up the heater and closed the curtains on the window, to keep the warmth inside. Yet, it became increasingly colder. I had even lit a few candles and before long I was sitting in the chair with my winter coat on. The apartment was almost sold, and I had no television to entertain me at that time. I had an old radio, but I couldn't find any familiar stations. All that came out of the speakers was old depressive music.

I sat in the corner of the living room and steam came out of my mouth. Then something very extreme happened. Out of nowhere, I was overwhelmed with intense emotions of sadness, homesickness, despair, loneliness, anger, depression, and fear. I experienced seven emotions at the same time, in the same moment. I've been through a lot mentally, but at that moment I was driven to madness instantly. I immediately realized that I was being attacked by the demon, and I immediately fled the house and spent the evening with someone else. This demon has made me experience pure negativity, by influencing my brain.

Kidney stones.

As you can see, this topic is quite dark thus far. When it comes to the afterlife, I have many negative experiences, but there is also an experience that was beautiful and positive. In the past, I have had to deal with a kidney stone, at least five times. During my first experience, I came into contact with someone who was also giving birth to a kidney stone. His name was Frits. It was very striking that we were both suffering from the same symptoms, at the same time. We were admitted at the same time, urinated blood at the same time, and had seizures at the same time. We were in sync.

At one point, I was standing in the elevator with Frits and suddenly a certain question came up. I wondered: What hurts more, giving birth to a child or giving birth to a kidney stone? Then he told me: How am I supposed to know that?! Still, the question stuck with me. After returning to bed, he started to tell a story that he was laying in the same room, in the same bed and in the same place where his father had died. This rare fact I remember quite well.

A day later, Frits was released from the hospital and I got someone else in my room. This old man didn't have long to live, and I built up a good relationship for a short time. Not long after, I was also released from the hospital. A few days later, I had to come back for an appointment, and after that appointment, I got a very uneasy feeling. Something inside me indicated that I had to visit that old man, yet it felt very weird to me and strange to do. I got over the strange feeling and immediately went to visit, something I normally wouldn't have done.

Then something special happened. I literally take one step into that room and out of the corner of my eye, a woman immediately sits up in her bed and, out of nowhere, says to me: Do you know what hurts more? A kidney stone is a lot more painful than childbirth! It was a pure impulse from this woman. However, this woman was laying where Frits was laying, and she gave me an answer to a question I had asked him in the elevator. In short, this answer came from Frits his deceased father, who temporarily took over that woman. Again, I only took one step into that room, and she started reacting immediately. The strange thing is that I didn't know that woman, and she didn't know who I was.

Nirvana.

There is one last experience I want to share, that was very decisive in my consciousness towards the hereafter. The only thing is that I was not the one who managed to perform this miracle. It was one of my former housemates, who managed to photograph two dogs that had been dead for years. It is this experience that finally made me aware of the existence of the afterlife. As a true animal lover, I finally accepted the afterlife and its existence. Animals also go to heaven. Animals have a soul, just like us. I say this because I have encountered people of religion, who claim that animals have no souls.

During their experiment, my former housemate had captured a light colored Labrador and a black colored Labrador, in full colors. It was physical evidence. The light Labrador lay across her lap and the black Labrador sat behind her back, looking into the camera from her shoulder. Both dogs posed very purposefully, for just a split second. However, they could only be seen in photographs. This experience made me thrilled because it indicates that animals also go to the heavenly paradise. In fact, in her case, the dogs served as a guide or protector. What made it possible was the family bond. It was her brother who took the photos. She has psychic abilities and so does her brother. During the experiment, they came together as twins, and were shown a picture of their old dogs.

Since then, I have been sharp and observant when it comes down to my surroundings. If something strange happens, I don't turn my back on it, but I try to explain it correctly. I no longer bury my head in the sand when it comes to the afterlife.

I am awake.

Psychic abilities.

My universal education.

My life is anything but easy. If I had to label myself, I would go for a wounded shaman. I am injured because I have to suffer from many diseases, to find an answer in how to combat these. I am purely tested on my resistance and endurance. In a sense, I represent a Chiron, from Greek mythology. He was a healer, and he also became terminally ill. By looking for a medicine, he would gain a lot of knowledge in the field of medication. Through his quest, he became a true healer. Ultimately, all the pain would make him give up his immortality. Death would deliver him from evil. As you can see, everything is about physical healing, but this also concerns mental healing. For example, I would solve my depression, thanks to the knowledge of astrology. I came across this by following a feeling that I woke up with. Astrology represents a form of mental healing. You understand that, when I represent a wounded healer, that it also includes knowledge of the universal energies, namely astrology and numerology.

The next aspect, is spirituality. Through the knowledge of astrology and later numerology, I would uncover all the building blocks of my total character. Spirituality is about nothing more than having ultimate self-knowledge, and using this knowledge to benefit from it. After many years of analyzing and explaining myself, I have reached a state known as a higher state of consciousness. I am familiar with psychic abilities, the afterlife, UFOs, astrology, and numerology. Everything revolves around the hidden, or that which we cannot always directly perceive with the eye. I know myself to the core, and as far as I still function, I use myself optimally. I am still someone who mentally continues to go for everything, in that sense, nothing has changed about me. I now live a life with minimal stress, and I've noticed that I haven't gotten sick in years, not even the flu. My health actually flourishes in having personal freedom.

Finally, there is the most important aspect. I am a pure Serpent Bearer, which means that my life is purely dedicated to acquiring so-called psychic abilities. It is the mark of the shaman. My zodiac sign is very well-known for having psychic abilities. Each psychic ability that I possess, is often an entirely unique experience. In the life of a shaman, everything in life revolves around gaining as many experiences as possible. This also includes the use of substances, such as drugs. It is not about the feeling you get, it is about becoming familiar with the fact that the body has multiple modes of experience. For example, snorting coke gives you an entirely different experience, than eating mushrooms. With cocaine, you feel very confident, and you feel mentally cheerful and sharp. For example, with magic mushrooms, you can see elephants flying. In my experience, I could feel music. Something that I now find difficult to imagine in a sober state. I was also completely zen during this trip. So what I want to say, is that everything is about gaining different experiences, in the broadest sense of the word, and consciously analyzing them. When it comes to clairvoyance, I have been able to experience this gift in its broadest sense. There are also a very few experiences that are the same. All experiences form a unique puzzle piece, that says something about the limits and possibilities of this simulation.

I have described all experiences very accurately, down to the smallest detail. My goal is not to be special, my goal is to teach you something about what psychic abilities actually are. For example, many people have the gift of clairvoyance, but are completely unaware of this because they do not analyze their dreams. By the way, dreams play a crucial role in my universal education. Now that I think about it deeply, even the Gods have played with my dreams. Contact with the Gods can be through dreams, but it is worth noting that they are all about pure symbolism. In my case, the message was proclaimed in three different dreams, all three of which came one after the other. They are also the only dreams where I ever felt the urge to write everything down in a notebook after waking up. I wouldn't bother to look at it until many years later. I had an urge to look for that notebook, and I spent an hour and a half doing this, until the middle of the night. When I found the notebook, I started analyzing them and wrote everything down in a text document. When I finally finished writing down the last dream, I had a real mindfuck. I had also written down in the notebook, the date, and time, down to the minute, when I had experienced each dream. When I finished writing it down, I looked at the time of the last dream and found that it was exactly 6 years later, down to the precise minute. It was another hint from the universe, that I was on the right track.

Claircognizance.

I possess four psychic abilities, and claircognizance is a gift to which I am very faithful. When this gift presents itself, it receives my utmost confidence because it has always proven to be right. No one is capable of convincing me otherwise. The special thing about this gift is the fact that it concerns things that I cannot or should not know at all. Claircognizance is an inner voice, which has no identity like man or woman, and comes from the solar plexus. So it is not a voice inside your head. The solar plexus therefore has a function in the field of psychic abilities. With this gift, I always get the feeling that it is a guide that helps me. Something is guiding me in the background, which communicates through this inner feeling, coming from the plexus solaris.

Around the age of 19, I consciously came into contact with this feeling for the first time. I had already been out of high school for a year, and I was sitting relaxed in front of the computer. Suddenly, I got a strong feeling that I was going to receive a call from an old classmate, whom I had not seen or spoken to for a year and a half. I then look at my phone, it rings two seconds later, and turns out it is that classmate I was thinking about. I thought that was a coincidence and decided to tell my mother. She laughed it off.

Then I walked up the stairs, and I'm standing there on the landing, and I got another feeling. This time it said that my mother would receive a call from a good friend. I turn around and shout down from the stairs, that my mother is going to get a call from her. My mother stood with the phone in her hand and laughed it off. The phone rang two seconds later, with an unlisted number, and it turned out to be the friend I warned her about. In just 5 minutes, I had two inner feelings that came true. I received information, and with all the courage in the world I said it out loud, only to see it come true.

My last experience with clairvoyance was on January 19, 2020. I have consciously remembered this date. This was the date that I first became aware of the coronavirus. It is estimated that by early December that previous year, the virus had broken out. When I finished reading an article, I had another inner feeling, and it was just one word: Bioweapon! Immediately the scenario of the discoverer of LSD crossed my mind and I knew enough. The coronavirus comes from a laboratory. Then came a period where I saw many "reliable" people, on behalf of large organizations such as the World Health Organization, lie very hard to keep everything quiet. They were very aware of the real problem.

It was striking that you could say anything on social media. For example, you could make the claim that the virus came from a baboon's ass, but saying that it escaped from a laboratory was prohibited and was ruthlessly condemned as a conspiracy theory. In short, anything could be said, but there was conscious censorship on the truth. For me, it was the ultimate hint, that I was touching a very sensitive nerve.

Let us use our brain for a second. What is known about this virus is that the cell and its contents consist of two entirely different animals. It concerns a bat and that of an armadillo. In nature, it is impossible for two entirely different animal species to merge genetically. This was the first hint that it comes from a laboratory. That story about the illegal meat market, the place where it officially broke out according to the sources, was a complete lie. Yet, the story gets much worse. American documents have been found, which point out that they were already experimenting with this coronavirus in 2015 and 2016. In short, the virus already existed and had not suddenly appeared out of nowhere.

I even suspect that the Americans have outsourced this secret project to China, and that someone there infected themselves during an experiment. Without realizing it, this person was infected, and the virus was able to spread unnoticed for 8 days, until the scientist dropped dead. The meat market is nothing more than a front. America and China are both involved in all the misery that would follow in the world. This proves that the Americans are engaged in creating biological weapons. As humanity, we have the Gods to thank. Thanks to evolution, little is left of this extreme virus.

I want to end this part of clair cognizance with my best experience. This experience was made possible by my guide. I was at someone's birthday, and we decided after the birthday, to go out and party. While standing in a club, I was relaxed and was looking around. There were all these pool tables, and I was playing a few games with some friends. It was a period in my life, when I had no money, and I didn't want to take advantage of other people. Times were tough.

I was standing there looking around uselessly, and I suddenly saw an old schoolmate with some nice-looking girl. This guy always hated me, and he wanted to impress her. For whatever reason, he walked up to me very tough, and I remember him making a shitty comment. At that moment, something exceptional happened. Instead of becoming angry, I suddenly became very calm within myself. Instead of commenting negatively on his behavior, I gave him valuable advice. Out of the blue, I said to him in very honest language: Hey, I often see you walking around with many pleasant girls, but I never see you leaving with one. I see you standing there with a very pleasant girl, but if you don't work on her tonight, she will pass you by. This just came out on autopilot, as if I was briefly taken over by my guide. When I said it, I immediately thought to myself, is this correct, and quickly concluded, everything will turn out fine.

He looked at me, and he thought I was crazy. He didn't see that positive reaction coming at all. I can still see that grin on his face, but my feeling said: Calm down, everything will be fine. I was immediately confident. He walked back to that girl and I can see on her face that he told her everything. She also started looking at me strangely, and yet the smile couldn't leave my face. I already knew from previous experiences, that something was coming. I just had to be patient.

It's an hour later, and I'm now in a different club. All this time I felt the urge to leave, and yet I stayed. I didn't have money to hang up my winter coat, so I wore it all evening. I'm standing on the side leaning against a pillar, feeling a bit hopeless, and I see next to me, that the tough guy was standing there with that girl. I then saw him walk away to get a drink. As he walks away, someone from that birthday comes up to me, and starts talking drunkenly, in all honesty. He starts telling me something like: Elmer, I'm crazy about a girl and I don't know what to do. She means a lot to me and bla bla bla. Then I said to him with good intentions: You know what you should do, you should not say this to me, but say this to her. He looked me straight in the eye and said: You're absolutely right! Then I see him walk up to that girl and kiss her full on the mouth. I didn't see that jerk who went to get a drink for the rest of that entire evening. My prediction had come true, without having deliberately lived by it. Yet, my advice played a critical element. Fate did its thing. Perhaps the best part was the fact that she was looking at me while kissing him. I could see in her eyes that it was a true "what the fuck moment" for her. I thank my guide for this wonderful experience.

Clairsentience.

I would discover that my psychic abilities are linked to specific zodiac signs. This is also where things get a bit complicated. My ascendant is in the zodiac sign of Gemini. The Gemini is known for becoming one with the other, in a literal sense. This sign is made to put other types on steroids, and this other type also gets extra qualities such as flexibility and intelligence. So it has a tendency to merge with another. The disadvantage of Gemini, is the fact that they can lose themselves in others. There is a lack of self-identity. As a Gemini, you are basically either a Gemini/Taurus or a Gemini/Cancer. The pure period is only 2 degrees and is characterized by complete instability, chaos, death, and destruction. I am a Gemini/Taurus, this also means that instead of one, I have been given two psychic abilities. Taurus is all about claircognizance and Gemini is all about clairsentience.

Clairsentience is a gift that I couldn't explain for a long time, but I now think I know what it is. My soul can divide into two parts, and one of these parts can bond with another person. They merge, as it were. I can make this connection with many people. It always happens in situations when I'm strongly thinking about somebody, or when I'm sitting near someone.

By the way, this gift is a lot like a curse. I am completely out of control, while this occurs. It also doesn't matter where the person is. For example, I was connected continuously to someone, more than 22 miles away, for three months straight, and I couldn't break the connection. It was on telepathically 24/7. To give an example, I was crazy about someone, but she kept me on a leash. Every moment that she was kissing someone else, was the moment that I received a signal with a message that she was being "unfaithful". In a very extreme case, I was woken up in the middle of the night by such a warning. The gift of claircognizance and clairsentience, came together all the time during that period. This is the hint that says we are dealing with the universal energy of Gemini. This gift brought out the worst in me. Everything ended when the truth finally came out, and it turned out that this gift had been trying to warn me all along. In retrospect, I managed to dodge the bullet. All this time, I was literally at war with myself.

Being connected for three months straight, left me mentally exhausted. This was in the period just before my study at the university were to end. This gift would play a major factor in creating the burnout. It also indicates that fate did everything it could, to destroy me. Clairsentience has taught me that the difference between a curse and a gift is minimal. For me, this clairsentient gift is all about the negative. This negative relationship is also clearly reflected in my name.

Due to my burnout and bipolar disorder, I would come into contact with mental health care. In this world, you meet people with the most diverse diseases. I would experience that, that there were times when I temporarily took over someone else his illness. This person only had to sit near me. Everything always went well, until I got home and the bomb exploded. I then walked around in complete hyper, and couldn't eat or sleep, I was completely freaking out. This lasts all day, until I fall asleep and wake up the next morning. So sleep is a reset button.

The problem I experience with clairsentience, is that in my case it represents an energy that goes to work completely ruthlessly and to some degree, it likes to see me suffer. It seems to enjoy my pain and it goes completely its own way. The message is always raw and harsh, yet my relationship seems to have improved over time. This is because in the process of resolving my depression, I finally gave the Gemini some form of existence. I gave it its identity back. Currently, I'm experiencing thunder at its best.

Impulsiveness.

Another psychic ability that is completely underestimated, is impulsiveness. I am a person who always follows his feelings, without asking any questions. I am a true dreamer, and I am easily distracted. I always want to do what I feel like doing. I have never been someone who lives well by other people's rules, I go my own way as much as possible. However, this does not mean that I never listen to someone else. I'm the type that, when something comes to my mind, I immediately take action. This does not mean that I always act thoughtlessly. There is a reason behind everything I do and say.

A good example of impulsivity is the story of the flight of thoughts and bipolar disorder. I had a strong inner feeling during work, and I immediately went home. When it comes to the depression, I woke up with a strong feeling, and once again, immediately went to work on giving my zodiac signs an identity. Look at that man I visited in the hospital, this too was based on impulse. How about that time when that phone rang? This was also a moment when I purely relied on my feelings and even had the courage to say it out loud, with 100% confidence. Impulsiveness is a gift because it can lead to answers or other special experiences. I notice strongly that I am always rewarded for following my impulses.

In my case, it is my invisible Twin who takes care of these situations. What gives it away is the fact that it temporarily takes over other people. The second aspect is the impulse, a quality that belongs to the fire element. Sagittarius is the zodiac sign that consists of the elements fire and air. It is known that Sagittarius and Gemini, get along very well. It gives my gift an extra dimension. My impulsiveness is also accompanied by temporary takeover, something a normal Sagittarius will never experience. In my case, it is a combination of both zodiac signs.

Let me give you an example of impulsiveness. I was working on a subject, I can't remember exactly what it was, and it was such a situation that instead of answers, you just get more questions. My whole mind was in brainstorm mode and suddenly, out of nowhere, I got the feeling to go for a walk. I immediately put on my shoes and started walking through the forest. During this walk, I met a woman and I started talking to her about her dog. I was talking to her for five minutes and then something special happened. Out of the blue, without going anywhere near the subject, she gave me all the answers to every question, I had asked myself at home, and then everything went back to normal, as if nothing had happened. In short, by going for a walk outside, or in other words by immediately following my impulse, I would encounter someone who possessed this knowledge and could give me the answers on a silver platter.

Let me step into the position of my guide. Let me try to imagine how this happened. My guide is always next to me and is aware of the questions that concern me. I was working on a topic and received many questions. My guide saw this and immediately started looking for someone who had these answers. So, in a sense, there is a kind of search engine. Ghosts can, as it were, smell you, at very great distances. Occasionally, they know you better than you know yourself. My Gemini in this case found a woman walking in the woods, and it would help me by allowing me to come into contact with this woman. However, to get in touch with this woman, I had to find myself in the woods.

I have also experienced this with a psychiatrist. I remember when I was talking to my psychiatrist and I unintentionally made the wrong comment. I had never seen her angry, but in a controlled fit of rage, she gave me the answers to every question I asked at home. It was completely out of her character. I came back to this a conversation later, and she could no longer remember anything about the incident. I also see a connection between the two experiences here. It appears that there is something hanging around me as a guide, which can temporarily take over other people. By temporary, I mean less than a minute. It plays on my impulses very occasionally, and by following it I get a reward.

Clairvoyance.

The last psychic ability I want to share, is also an ability that is being misunderstood by many. When it comes to psychic abilities, they all relate to me personally. I don't dream for others, which in turn means I can't predict the future for other people. You only realize that it was a prediction when you actually experience it. All clairvoyant experiences are accompanied by a dream or temporary trance. When I experience this in dreams, there is no time or date when it will take place. What makes me special in this area, is that I have been able to experience this gift in a very broad sense. It is Scorpio at work.

In the beginning, they were long-term predictions. At that time, I wondered about the value of clairvoyance, since you only find out about it, the moment you experience it. The Gods listened to my request, and my negative image would entirely change the moment I started experiencing it in short term. Clairvoyance finally showed its usefulness as a gift.

The first time I came into contact with clairvoyance, was when I was about 8 years old. I had had a very vivid dream about a teammate. In my dream, he made a very specific dribble with a basketball. The light in the training hall was off, and he stood in front of the open swinging doors. Then a year passed, and my dream came true. It was after basketball practice, and I saw my teammate standing there in front of the open swinging doors of the hall, and the lights were off. Out of nowhere, he suddenly makes that very specific dribble. While this is happening, I immediately fall into a short trance. It felt like a short burst of energy, and I was in a temporary dream state. When he finished the dribble, that was the moment I fully recovered. I never said anything to my parents about this.

My dream from a year before, was 100% accurate. At that time, I continued with life as if nothing had happened. Now that I think of it, I see everything entirely different. The scary thing about this entire story, is the fact that this boy could have made any choice in life that year, yet everything still led to that one moment. Clairvoyance shows that the future we face is written in stone. This is also called fate.

Clairvoyance occurs largely through dreams. In extremely rare cases, it can happen that you are surprised by an actual daydream. I experienced this, only once. You are busy with something, and out of nowhere you end up in a dream state and receive information. The moment you wake up from this state, you often forget the entire incident. Just like a real dream, after waking up, it is often difficult to figure out what you dreamed about. Clairvoyance and a trance state, always go together as a pair. This also means that there are many clairvoyant people, who are completely unaware of their gift. They do not analyze their dreams and therefore remain blind to its existence.

This previous example was a long-term example, but I would also experience clairvoyance with short term effect. In my opinion, it always pays to do things based on pure feeling. I played indoor soccer for a short period, and during one of the matches, I encountered clairvoyance. I was standing on a spot on the sideline and a defender was standing diagonally behind me. I then briefly fall into a trance and imagine that I pass the ball between me and the defender with great effect, and then have the advantage at full sprint. I come out of the trance and am immediately handed over the ball, and the ball passes perfectly, just like in the dream fragment, with great effect between me and him. The imagination was 100% accurate. I then start the sprint, and I reach the ball just a little earlier than the defender. I just manage to get the tip of my shoe against the ball and I see the goalkeeper dive over the ground. The ball went right past his fingertips, hit the inside post, and went into the goal. It couldn't be more precise. In this case, I received a prediction that came true immediately afterward, but there is also an element to it, that I then have to capitalize on it myself.

I have another experience of short-term clairvoyance, and this was my best experience ever. I was 19 years old, and I was at the fair with two 12-year-olds. One of them wanted to get into the bumper cars, and immediately a warning feeling went through my body. So I also decided to ride with him in the bumper cars. We are in round three and then out of nowhere this 12-year-old boy is hit in the face while they were coming from the opposite direction. It was a real sucker punch, out of nowhere, for no reason. I was so angry that they didn't do it to me, that I immediately started a conflict with the group. All I remember is that I was pushed and fell off the raised platform, landing on the hood of a car parked next to it.

At that moment, a thought immediately went through my mind. A year earlier I had also been attacked by a group and, to my regret, I did not fight back. This moment passed through me very briefly, and I decided, out of pure anger, to take up the fight this time and fight back. After this choice, everything went black for a split second and a trance followed. In this trance, I was shown in three seconds, in a clear colorful sharp image, what my opponent was going to do and how I avoided it, and it also included the response of me hitting back. Then I come out of the trance and my body automatically starts fighting for me. It was as if it had been programmed, there was no influence from me. I immediately fell into another trance straight afterward.

This short trance, where I got to see everything in three seconds and then see it come true, happened three to four times, in a row. Actually, I'm 9 to 12 seconds older than I actually should be. I experienced 3 seconds of time, in a period of just one millisecond. In short, during the trance where I was shown the future in the short term, time was also slowed down enormously. The only explanation I have, is that my guide had temporarily taken over my body. It started fighting in my name.

However, there was also a big painful moment. When the trance was over, I felt it necessary to add another kick myself, and this was clearly not in the plan. I kicked him so hard with my instep, that I walked with a complete limp for two months. It was an expensive lesson for me to learn that you should always kick with your shins, and I would also cash in on this lesson at some point. Allow me to share this story with you so that the circle is complete, although it has nothing to do with psychic abilities.

It was indoor soccer, and we played in the lowest division. There were hobby teams, and people who felt it necessary to break your legs. There came a time when I was in a duel with a player. This man was twice as heavy and also one and a half times as wide. I had the ball, and then he throws his full weight into it, trying to knock me off the ball. He then started leaning against me with his back and also found it necessary to elbow me on my chest, three times in a row. The referee was literally a meter away and had seen everything, but did not intervene. I then looked at him with an indignant look, and the penny dropped for me very quickly. I then became extremely furious and decided to kick this guy over with my shin. I had never seen anyone fall so hard to the floor. I swept him right over. He then got up and wanted to grab a teammate, but I quickly made it clear to him, that he had to deal with me. I also made it loudly clear, that he had to stop kicking my teammates or that there would be problems. The great thing about this story was that afterward, there was a lot of fun playing the game without kicking, hitting or anything else. Everything was played very sporty. I remember it as a fun match. As crazy as it sounds, my kick ultimately had a very positive effect on the entire match. At the end of the match, I had no issues at all, and he walked around with a completely blue shin.

He learned an important lesson: Don't fuck with the messenger!

The simulation.

Simulation.

I briefly talked about my battle with various illnesses, such as bipolar disorder. I talked about my experiences with the afterlife and psychic abilities. Again, I have been completely open and honest about this. There is no exaggeration whatsoever.

According to my old psychiatrist, I apparently have an abnormality. She thought it was strange that I wanted a logical answer to everything in life. According to her, the latter was impossible, yet with this book, I demonstrate the opposite. Every experience I've had is in my memory as if I experienced it yesterday. For many years, I have been challenged to find answers and see the logical connections. I have fought for over 18 years and I have all the answers I was looking for. Giving up, is not in my dictionary.

For the first 9 years, I did everything by memory, and it only started to fall into place, the moment I started processing my story on paper. Only then did I finally get an overview of what was going on. What made it all so difficult is the fact that there are many topics involved. I didn't see the great connection. My story had no beginning, but also no end. Now, 9 years later, I am familiar with the whole picture.

I started my story with a biography because it covers certain taboos. The afterlife and psychic abilities are both taboo in the Netherlands, let alone any openness about mental illness. While everyone in life turned right, I turned left. At the age of 33, I completely broke down and I can no longer do anything on paper. The many burnouts had taken their toll. Yet, it is true, that I am worth more than ever, simply because of the knowledge I possess. My knowledge is unique, and I have answers to topics, that others do not consider possible. If you thought psychic abilities and the afterlife were strange, I'm warning you, we're going several steps further down the rabbit hole.

My universal education sent me in the direction of astrology, numerology, but also religion and ancient cultures, have not escaped my notice. I had to make my own judgment about everything, instead of being guided by others. I see a story that almost everyone seems to overlook. I am very aware of the corruption. When you get to the end of my book, compare all my conclusions, with that what you thought you knew.

I have struggled with astrology and my psychic abilities for a long time. There were too many questions, and I had too few answers. I had problems with astrology because it is based on fate. I had an issue with clairvoyance because it suggested that freedom is an illusion. I am the Sagittarius, and funnily enough, that zodiac sign is all about personal freedom. In short, I was in conflict. Astrology proved itself, by curing me of a long-lasting depression. I would later also discover that I could guess the zodiac sign, based on someone's statements. I especially have this with female Sagittarians. Some are an open book to me. In short, astrology exists and in this case, you have to perceive it with your ears. It is nothing more, than a matter of paying close attention.

Yet, the battle with astrology was not entirely over. I would actually look at the basics, and I would discover that a constellation was missing from the list. Let it be a coincidence that I represent that constellation, in its purest form. I then did some research and discovered that the constellation of the Serpent Bearer, is positioned between Scorpio and Sagittarius. So by adding the Serpent Bearer, I get 13 zodiac signs, and funnily enough, everything comes back into harmony. In short, by puzzling and playing, I discovered the true model of basic astrology. By restoring the old model, I would also unite astrology and numerology as one. Both make use of the same universal building blocks.

In society, I faced many problems with being psychic. It wasn't so much that I didn't enjoy experiencing it, it was my social environment that made it difficult. I was declared crazy by several authorities, without having heard a single word of my story. I was stamped in advance and deliberately silenced. All this time, I had to keep everything bottled up and now in this book, I let everything go.

I have experienced the gift of clairvoyance the most, and it would test my brain to its limits. Besides the fact that astrology says that we follow a fixed script, clairvoyance also confirms this. In my first experience, there was a year between the dream and the event. That boy had the free choice, to do everything in life the way he wanted, yet everything ultimately led to that one moment.

Around the age of 30, I worked at a printing company. It was a period in which I wanted to prove myself to society. I wanted to do my part. In retrospect, it was already too late. I worked too long hours and I didn't get enough rest to recover from it. The last three months I worked there, I only went to sleep when I got home. I slept and I worked. My body indicated that I couldn't do it anymore, mentally I didn't want to give up. Things went so bad during those three months, that my soul became inactive. I was present, but my soul was not. I was in this state for three days, and the special thing about it, was that everything, down to the smallest detail, went on autopilot. Whenever someone asked me a question, my body automatically answered the question being asked. I then had to consciously check with myself, what was asked and what I had answered, and then I always drew the conclusion afterward, that everything was correct.

As I mentioned in the introduction, for a shaman, everything in life is about gaining many unique experiences, and this was one of them. In short, everything went on autopilot for three days, I even drove home in this condition. It indicates that I have been pre-programmed, down to the smallest detail. It also means that our body is completely coded. The definition of freedom is nothing besides our inability, to perceive the future on command. Freedom is an illusion, but a beautiful one. I have come to terms with the fact, that the future will always remain a surprise, even for a clairvoyant like me.

But then I encountered a huge dilemma. If freedom is an illusion and everything is pre-programmed, what is the final judgment of the soul actually worth? Why are people convicted for actions they could not have prevented? I then spent many years working on this, until the penny finally dropped. Someone taught me that there are three forms of consciousness.

The first state is the state that everyone is in by default, and is called the level of behavior. In this state, people do things that they cannot explain why they do them. These people are completely unaware, of who they are. The second state is the level of identity. This is the phase in which someone starts self-reflection and self-criticism. This state represents only a learning period. The last state, is the level of spirituality. These people are fully aware of their behavior and appearance, and make their choices very consciously. In life, you ultimately have to take control, of the choices you make. The choices you make in life, matter, which points to certain key moments in the script. The sooner you attain the level of spirituality, the better.

The last state comes from me, I want to add the level of higher consciousness to it. In this state, you are not only fully aware of yourself, you are also fully aware of reality. You must be familiar with the hidden rules and laws of life. In short, we have the state of behavior, identity, spirituality, and a higher state of consciousness.

What is life?

What exactly is life? To answer that question we have to look at the whole picture. The origin of the soul is in the afterlife. It's where we originally came from. We then step into a body as a soul and often consciously enter into a temporary experience. We call this process reincarnation. We are currently familiar with more than one and a half million different animal species, and for the sake of simplicity we leave out all flora. All life forms on this Earth offer a different life experience. As a soul you can reincarnate as anything. In short, we have many options to experience life in different ways.

Life is clearly not all about roses and moonshine. In nature we actually have two species, we have the prey and we have the hunter. One man's death is another man's bread. A lion is not condemned for eating meat. It's part of his character to have to be that way. However, we as humans have a choice. That makes our lives completely different. We bear responsibility for our choices. A lion does not have to be aware of his behavior. We as human beings, do have to be aware. For example, as humans we cannot get away with murder. In the afterlife, the grim reaper is waiting for you and it is time for you to take your punishment. In short, the idea is to survive everything and bring life to a happy end. The way you die, actually does matter. Souls can get stuck in trauma, depriving themselves of access to the portal because they are stuck in the moment.

When death occurs, the soul separates from the body. The person's experience continues as normal. Pain is not experienced, everything flows together smoothly. After death you are meant to let go of your temporary experience on Earth. Being aware of the afterlife and its rules, helps enormously with this process. Some souls do not realize that they are dead because they cannot remember or even acknowledge their death. Some of them think, they are still alive. It shows how subtle the transition from life to death is. The moment you consciously let go of everything is often the moment you start traveling. One must consciously enter the portal, and the other soul is, as it were, automatically sucked up into the process. Those who have behaved badly, remain behind on Earth and are consciously forgotten. Engaging life as a human being, carries a greater responsibility. Life is a lot like a computer game, yet life itself is not a game, but one where your actions can have serious consequences. Every choice you make in life matters, and knowledge about the afterlife and the universal building blocks, is actually a requirement.

Alien life.

I haven't talked about an important topic yet. In this case, I want to talk about other life in the universe. We are not alone, and perhaps we never been. If a life form from another planet visits us, we call it extraterrestrial. Extraterrestrial life also has a soul and follows the same rules as us. Extraterrestrial souls also exist in the afterlife. These seem to have developed further, yet they also have different rankings. They too, have good and bad beings.

Space travel is not without danger. I suspect that if you die on Mars, there is a good chance that your soul will remain tied to that planet. I can't tell you anything about the afterlife on Mars, but we still have to seriously consider that risk. Demons summoned to our dimension through dark rituals, can't return from whence they came. They are, as it were, trapped on our planet. There is no portal that takes them back to their domain.

As I already indicated, the afterlife on Earth is Hell, and it is clear that we as humans end up in a mild form of punishment. We are still being spared to some extent. Alien souls, such as the shadow man, came from an entirely different dimension, which is completely dominated by pure chaos. My demon came from an ice world because it could imitate enormous cold. It was able to completely manipulate the temperature in my environment. There is also a hell, which consists of a world of fire. There are demons that smell like sulfur, and that refers to a place full of volcanic activity. In short, we are not dealing with a single hell, there are many forms throughout the universe, each planet has its own.

Dreams.

During life, we also need time to sleep. The body requires time to process things, and during sleep, the body recovers. The question is: What are dreams? There is no single answer to this question. I am aware of different types of dreams. The most common dream type, are dreams in which you process things, that you experienced that day before. Dreams can portray this in a very playful and very distorted way. The dream world is extremely creative. This also means that, when we are awake, we are part of a world with fixed code and rules. However, when we go to sleep, we enter a world that is completely dominated by chaos.

Another dream type is clairvoyance, and clairvoyance has two forms. The rarest form is when you have a dream that predicts the future with 100% accuracy. You literally get to see what will happen in the future. However, there is no date when it will take place. I would personally experience that most predictions actually come through very symbolic dreams. You will only find out the true message, when you fully analyze the dream. You should always ask yourself the question: What does this mean for me? What feeling does it evoke in me? My clairvoyant predictions, always come to me in the form of a nightmare.

I would also find out, that the moon sometimes influences my dreams. It is usually during the full moon that it starts. In this case, it is about processing negative things from the past. The moon has the function of bringing out the subconscious, to process unprocessed emotions and experiences. You can recognize these dreams, by the fact that you wake up under very intense emotions. This can be sadness, pure anger, or even a lust for murder. The full moon can temporarily bring out the worst in people, this phenomenon is also known as the myth of the werewolf. In astrology, the moon is known as negative, yet its healing intentions are good.

In life, I have had many illnesses that are related to stress. I was exhausted for many long periods, and there was even a moment when I was addicted to dreams. During that period, every time I closed my eyes, I had a new vivid dream. It was also during this addiction that something else contacted me. The message was spread across three different dreams. They are also the only dreams I have ever bothered to write down. What I want to say for now, is that there is a higher power in this universe, that can influence our dreams.

There are also lucid dreams. I have experienced this type of dream, twice. Lucid means waking up in a dream. You become aware of the fact that you are dreaming, and then you have the free will, to do anything you like. For example, I immediately flew away. The second time I experienced it, was during a prediction. At the end of the prediction, I became aware that I was dreaming, this time I also wanted to fly away, but instead of flying, my feet were nailed to the ground, and I got caught.

There are also vivid dreams. These are dreams that seem very real. It happens, rather frequently, that these dreams are wrongly interpreted as dreams that predict the future. They don't predict anything. I have had many types of dreams, but I do remember a special one. It led to a real mindfuck when I finally woke up.

While I was dreaming, I thought I really woke up. I walk through my bedroom and yet, it feels different. Then I wake up again, once more I get out of bed and this time my bedroom window is open. I wanted to close it and while closing the window, I felt a huge energy burst going through my body. It reminded me of the trance I felt, during my first experience with clairvoyance. Then I wake up again, walk through the bedroom and this time, I want to close the bedroom door. While trying to close the door, I then saw that there was a lighter stuck between the door, and then I really woke up. When I actually woke up, I started to doubt whether I was dreaming, or really awake.

Let's get back to the question: What is life? As you can see, nothing is what it seems. Our origins lie in the afterlife, time can be completely manipulated, and freedom is an illusion. The afterlife and psychic abilities exist, just as astrology and numerology both represent sciences. Our experience of life is extreme because we find ourselves in a world full of order or in a world full of chaos.

We live out a fixed script together, with built-in key moments. You are meant to be self-aware and thereby always learn to make the right choices. You have to take the initiative yourself. It is also clear that you must be familiar with the afterlife and its rules. In short, certain demands are placed on our lives as human beings. The bottom line, is that we as souls must be aware that we are part of a simulation. You are also meant to function optimally. To achieve the latter, I will teach you everything you need to know about astrology, and I will teach you everything about numerology. Before I can do that, however, I must first resurrect the Serpent Bearer as a constellation. This forgotten constellation plays a critical role.

The Serpent Bearer.

Resurrection.

I've finished my biographical section, and now it's time for me to share you all my knowledge about the Serpent Bearer. However, it is not as easy as it seems because I have to bring the Serpent Bearer back to life. I am faced with an enormous task because I have to go against the established order. There is also a certain order, in which I have to do things.

In this chapter, I will focus purely on the forgotten constellation of the Serpent Bearer. The zodiac sign of the Serpent Bearer, plays a very decisive role in astrology and numerology. Without the Serpent Bearer, everything is in conflict. Astrology and numerology, are necessary to reach the highest state of personal development. Spirituality sounds like a scary word to many, yet it means nothing more than knowing yourself to the core and getting the most out of it. Spirituality has nothing to do with religion, in fact, religion does the opposite. Religion determines how the crowd should think, spirituality indicates that you are unique, which means that every person has their own manual.

Before I can continue my story, I have to reintroduce the Serpent Bearer. First, I will tell you something about the origins of the Serpent Bearer. Next, I want to show that the Serpent Bearer is still part of the whole picture. Once I have restored the basics of astrology to its roots, then it is time for me to share with you the hidden identity of the Serpent Bearer. He may have become unknown to us over the past 900 years, but the Egyptians, the Aztecs, the Mayans, the Greeks, the Romans, and even our Germanic ancestors, all acknowledged the Serpent Bearer. His character can therefore be found in other ancient cultures, spread all over the world. It's time, to resurrect my zodiac sign.

The origin of the Serpent Bearer.

I have been working on the constellation of the Serpent Bearer since 2012, and in 2023, I would find the reason this constellation no longer exists. It is Christianity that has deliberately destroyed all information surrounding this zodiac sign. As you can see, Christianity has much to fear from the Serpent Bearer.

The constellation of the Serpent Bearer, dates back more than 12,000 years, and has only been unknown for the last 900. It is striking that this zodiac sign carries many identities. The name of the constellation, Scorpio, was already determined by our ancestors more than 12,000 years ago. In Gobekli Tepe, pillar 43, the Serpent Bearer is depicted as a vulture spreading its wings. These wings have the same angle as the Serpent, and at its feet, there is the constellation of Scorpio. What the image shows, is that this Serpent Bearer carries an element on his wings, a sun, which we know as the constellation of the Northern Crown. The ancient Greeks called this constellation the Temple of Delphi. The zodiac sign of the Serpent Bearer, is connected to psychic abilities.

The Serpent Bearer is a combination of two specific zodiac signs. It is always the combination of the sun in Sagittarius, and the moon in Scorpio. Both zodiac signs are known for their intensity, yet both represent each other's extremes. The point where both energies meet, the conflict zone, the energy is so intense, that a new energy is created, called the Serpent Bearer. In short, the Serpent Bearer, in the purest sense, is always a child of Sagittarius and Scorpio.

Astrologically speaking, the following is happening. Scorpio represents a water element, which is enhanced by an air element. Sagittarius represents a fire element, which is enhanced by an air element. You can see Scorpio as a cold and wet air, and Sagittarius, as a hot and dry air. When the two come together, a new element is created called lightning. In short, the Serpent Bearer has its own unique element, called lightning.

The ascendant also plays an important role. If you are a Serpent Bearer and your ascendant is the zodiac sign of Gemini, your Gemini transforms into another identity. In that case, everything revolves around chaos, death and destruction, which is also known as the element of thunder. So if your sun is in Sagittarius, your moon is in Scorpio and your ascendant is Gemini, then you represent thunder, and lightning. In that case, you are completely pure. In astrology there are 6 elements that play a role, namely fire, earth, air, water, thunder, and lightning.

The conflict in astrology.

There is a conflict at the core of astrology. I'm surprised everyone missed this. This is why I look at things myself, and find a solution to the existing problem. Astrology is in conflict and there are three clues to this.

The first hint has to do with the elements. If I list the 12 zodiac signs, the elements are in conflict. In this case, we need to look at numerology. Aries is known as a fire element and is connected to the number 1. The number 10 is in numerology equal to 1. In this case, it brings Capricorn and Aries together. In other words, the elements of earth and fire are coming together. So the issue here is, that the elements are in conflict because they are not of the same type. It indicates that something is missing.

The Serpent Bearer is equivalent to the number 9, and has its element called lightning. By adding this knowledge to the existing element model, everything matches again. Aries is equal to Sagittarius, it is fire on fire. This also applies to all zodiac signs that follow. All elements are back in harmony because of adding the Serpent Bearer to the list. In short, this proves we have 13 zodiac signs.

There is also another way in which you can see that astrology is in conflict. It's all about the zodiac sign of Libra. Libra is known for its balance, calmness, and stability. Both scales should carry equal weight. In astrology, this is not the case with the model of 12 zodiac signs. There are 6 constellations before Libra, and only 5 constellations follow. In short, Libra is out of balance and does not live up to its name. By adding the Serpent Bearer, both scales are equal again. So, because of adding the Serpent Bearer, Libra lives up to its name again.

The third hint emerges when we look at the types of the constellations. In this case, we have to look at three magic numbers, they are the combination 147, 258 and 369. If I add the Serpent Bearer to the list, something special happens. The 258, represents the zodiac signs of Taurus, Leo, Scorpio and Capricorn. As you can see, they all represent animals. The 258, stands for pure animal instinct.

The 147 combination consists of animals, a hybrid and an object. It represents the zodiac signs of Aries, Cancer, Libra, Sagittarius, and Pisces. This number is all about controlling and stabilizing animal instinct. The 147, is a number that is connected to evolution.

Something special happens, with the 369. By adding the Serpent Bearer, the 369 corresponds to all human types in astrology. It is completely pure. The 369 represents Gemini, Virgo, the Serpent Bearer and Aquarius. In short, the number 369 represents humanity. It refers to a very sacred combination because this 369 combination, is known for possessing the thunder and lightning elements.

As you can see, there are three important indications that the Serpent Bearer is still part of astrology. The elements are all back in harmony, Libra regains its symbolic value, and the 369 is all about humanity. Basically, in astrology, we have 13 zodiac signs and we have 6 elements.

The question that follows: How do I implement the Serpent Bearer into the existing model? According to the Aztec calendar, it contains a period of 13 degrees. It is a period that is shorter than two weeks. As I already indicated, we are dealing with a conflict zone. This means that Scorpio and Sagittarius, both compromise on their existing period. If your sun, moon, or ascendant is between 23.5 degrees and 30 degrees in Scorpio, then you are actually a Serpent Bearer. If your sun, moon, or ascendant, is between 0 degrees and 6.5 degrees in the period of Sagittarius, then you are actually a Serpent Bearer. Yet, the secret still lies in the combination, sun in Sagittarius, moon in Scorpio, and ascendant in Gemini.

Who is the Serpent Bearer?

Who does the Serpent Bearer represent? The answer to this is simple, it are all thunder and lightning gods. Everything is about the extreme, it is the motto: All or nothing. The Serpent Bearer can be quite ruthless. This sign also represents the judge. It is the Serpent Bearer who decides who gets awarded and who gets punished in the afterlife. It is all about the final judgement. The all or nothing attitude, gives the Serpent Bearer the ability to make difficult decisions quickly. It rarely hesitates. When the final judgement is made, it sometimes happens that people are convicted and receive an appropriate punishment. You understand that these souls truly hate the Serpent Bearer. The Serpent Bearer never backs down and can even be the one creating conflict. It rarely avoids a fight. In short, the Serpent Bearer is not popular with everyone, and therefore certainly does not make easy friends.

As I indicated at the beginning, the Serpent Bearer was consciously erased from history by Christianity. All documentation has been destroyed, and the same applies to Germanic mythology. Only flawed fragments remain. However, other ancient cultures did worship this sign. When it comes to Egypt, I end up with a combination of Thoth and Osiris. It was Thoth who shared all the secrets of life with humanity, and it is Osiris who rules over the afterlife. I don't know enough about Egyptian myths, but the total character of the Serpent Bearer, may be divided among different characters. I feel like something is still missing. The reason I think so, has to do with the following two ancient cultures. They focus on different aspects of a single personality.

When I look at the ancient Greeks, it is clear that they were close to the truth. They came a lot closer to true reality, than the ancient Egyptians. The thing is that Greek stories are based on constellations. What they used to do, they took a certain constellation, and fleshed out the character to make it into an adventure. The latter is important because it makes the stories easier to remember. Something special is also happening here. The Aztecs of South America, and the Greeks of Europe, worship the same Gods, in the same form.

With the Greeks, the story becomes obvious. We have the supreme god of thunder and lightning, named Zeus. Zeus is a pure Serpent Bearer. Each of his children represents an aspect, of Zeus his total character. So they are not real children. It has the form of an old birth horoscope. The same applies to Germanic mythology, where Odin is represented by his three sons. The Serpent Bearer is a twin. In Greek myth, the Sagittarius is represented by Apollo, and his sister Artemis represents Scorpio. Apollo is equal to the sun, and Artemis is equal to the moon. Together, they create the element of lightning. Next comes the defining aspect, and that is the zodiac sign of Gemini. This constellation is represented by Hermes, who is the messenger, or representative, of all the Gods. It is thunder in its positive form. For simplicity, if we put Hermes, Apollo, and Artemis together, they represent the aspect of thunder and lightning, of Zeus.

The Aztecs and the Maya also had this very specific division. The Aztecs chose to worship the pure Serpent Bearer. They worshiped the aspect of creation and destruction. Blood sacrifices, were therefore made to the thunder gods. The Mayans were slightly different, in that they worshiped only the Serpent Bearer. They still address to the same God, but only highlight the creation aspect. In short, the Aztecs worshiped Zeus, and the Maya worshiped Apollo and Artemis.

In addition, there is also Aphrodite. She represents the zodiac sign of Virgo. I would discover that Aphrodite is the wife of Zeus. It is an element that complements thunder and lightning. The Serpent Bearer has a hidden link with Virgo, see the number combination 369. As a pure Serpent Bearer, I also have a strong bond with earth. Like the thunder and lightning element, I also happen to dominate all earth elements, by name. I control over the zodiac signs of Taurus, Virgo, and Capricorn.

The days of the week.

Around the year 1,100 AD, Christianity deliberately destroyed many valuable resources. Our true past has been completely falsified and erased. Yet, our ancestors fought back and largely managed to retain our identity under enormous pressure. Our true origins still live on in the days of the week.

- 1. The week starts on Sunday, the day dedicated to the sun.
- 2. Then comes Monday, the day dedicated to the moon.
- 3. Tuesday is all about the battle between good and evil, and self-sacrifice.
- 4. Wednesday is the day dedicated to Odin, which is the day of creation.
- 5. Thursday, the day dedicated to thunder, which is the day of destruction.
- 6. Then there is Friday, which is all about Frigg or Freya.
- 7. Saturday is of Roman origin and represents the planet Saturn.

What do I see in this story? First, it is the reference to astrology. What you need to know is that at that time there were no instruments to calculate the ascendant. All they knew about astrology was the sun and moon sign. It refers to the duality that lies within someone.

Tuesday is the day of self-sacrifice and the fight against evil. Legend says that the Gods lived a peaceful existence, until a wolf was born named Fenrir. The Gods were afraid because this wolf became stronger than the Gods. They tried to curb his strength by giving him various tests, but Fenrir was able to withstand them all. Then a meeting between the Gods took place, and they decided to make a special collar made of magic. Fenrir smelled trouble and accepted the challenge, but with the condition that Tyr, the God of justice, had to put his arm in the wolf's mouth. If Fenrir were to be bound, he would bite off Tyr's arm, and so he did. The God of justice, sacrificed himself to curb evil.

Wednesday is the day of Wodan, which is another Germanic name of Odin. Odin is a Serpent Bearer, which is associated with lightning. He represents the energy of creation. Thursday is Thor's day. He represents thunder. This Thursday is all about chaos, death and destruction, in its most positive form. Together, Wednesday and Thursday, form the elements of thunder and lightning. This is a critical aspect because this story also has its legend. For example, Thor was raised by lightning gods. In other words, he was raised by the Serpent Bearer. It indicates that thunder can only be positive, when this chaotic nature is countered, by the Serpent Bearer. In short, the Serpent Bearer restrains the thunder. If the thunder is on its own, without the counter of the Serpent Bearer, it will lead to misery. In the latter, thunder represents evil in its most negative form.

Friday is the day of Frigg or Freya. She is the wife of Odin. Frigg stands for feminine energy, and represents the element of earth. Legend has it that Odin finds himself in the afterlife on Earth. He tests souls for their true value. He rules the heavenly realm, yet he pretends to be an unkempt wanderer. The message is: Never judge a book by its cover. Odin has a connection to the elements of earth. Yet, there is still something remarkable going on. Firstly, it refers to astrology, and secondly, there is a 369 combination.

- The day of Odin, represents the number 9, the Serpent Bearer, and the planet Jupiter.
- The day of Thor, represents the number 3, the Gemini, and the planet Mercury.
- The day of Frigg, represents the number 6, Virgo, and the planet Venus.

Then, something weird happens. Saturday comes from Roman mythology. The Saturday represents the Roman God Saturn. It conflicts with the previous days, which are all Germanic. In astrology, Saturn represents the father, which is characterized by a demanding and disciplined energy.

Chronos.

For a long time I was under the impression, that the Romans erased an identity, in order to replace it with one of their gods. However, I now believe that our Germanic ancestors only counted six days in a week. The calendar we know today, comes from the old Roman Empire, which started with the new era. In short, our ancestors were forced, to adopt the concept of the Romans.

Before I start, I want to say something. In one way or another, I have always felt the need to make the annual calendar fit. It's a kind of puzzle that I would like to solve, using logic. I really don't like the chaotic pattern of the current calendar at all. I can't find any logical connection to it. However, it is true that there was an annual calendar, before this Roman model was imposed on everyone. I have also been puzzling for many years and I like to take on the challenge. The mistake I made all this time, was that I kept focusing, on the wrong model. I was stuck in tunnel vision. I am someone who writes very spontaneously and if I encounter something, I solve the problem immediately. I'm going to solve it right here, right now.

So I often have an idea and then work on it, to see if it leads anywhere. In this case, it's all about the number 6, and time. Let's honor this number and see if we can make the annual calendar correct, without adding a leap day.

The question I have, is what would this data mean, if I assume 6 days a week? The only way to find out, is to work this idea out on paper. The reason I think we only had 6 days, is because of the total story that is told in our 6 days of the week. It appears to be complete. Saturn, has no value to this story. What I also know, is that our distant ancestors, determined the division of time. Everything revolved around the number 6. To understand this, we have to simplify.

In this concept, I use the 6 days of the week, just like our ancestors. The 6 represents Virgo, and is a very important element when it comes to time. The number 9 stands for completeness. In other words, there is no more step left afterward, it indicates that the cycle is complete.

The day is divided into 6 pieces. We have the night, midnight, morning, noon, afternoon, and evening. Let me assume that our ancestors took 360 days in a year as a basis. This would mean that there is a turnover in the actual year. Each year represents 5.25 missing days. If I make this a period of eight years, I arrive at a difference of 42 days (4+2 = 6). I can solve this problem by adding a week to each year, and every eighth year, I omit this extra week. In short, we have 7 years of 366 days, and a single eighth year of 360 days to complete the cycle. This also means that every 8 years, a new cycle starts. So we have 7 years of 366 days, which represents a total of 61 weeks. The eighth year has 360 days, which concludes the entire cycle as complete, and consists of 60 weeks. In short, I seem to have finally found the solution, on the true annual calendar. There are no decimals, and I have left the number 6, in complete harmony.

As you can see, this is the thought process I go through when I follow my impulses. I solve everything, by asking the right questions. It has led to a logical and fixed pattern, in the annual calendar. Notice what happens when I simplify.

- So we have 60 seconds in a minute. (6+0 = 6)
- We have 60 minutes in an hour. (6+0 = 6)
- We have 3,600 seconds in an hour. (3+6+0+0=9)

- We have 24 hours in a day. (2+4 = 6)
- We have 1,440 minutes in a day. (1+4+4+0 = 9)
- We have 6 days a week. (6)
- We have 144 hours in a week. (1+4+4 = 9)
- Each year has 366 days. (3+6+6=15=1+5=6)
- The eighth year has 60 weeks. (6+0 = 6)
- The eighth year has 360 days. (3+6+0=9)

So, this is how impulsiveness works for me. Something comes up and I go for it directly. You've just had the best example of my impulsiveness. I really spent years solving the calendar. It was an urge within me, that saw this as a true challenge. When describing the days of the week, the penny dropped, and I finally got it right. By starting from six days a week, I finally solved the years-long mystery, based on an impulse.

Astrology: The Serpent Bearer.

In the field of astrology, I have been able to locate several sources that explain the identity of the Serpent Bearer. I had to consult various books, but I did manage to find a description of my type. In this description, Scorpio and Sagittarius are put together. The same applies to the ascendant. I treat the pure Serpent Bearer in its entirety. This information is short and sweet, plus I can confirm that the description is pretty accurate. What follows, is a description of the pure Serpent Bearer.

Sun in Sagittarius versus moon in Scorpio: Controlled inspiration.

The Serpent Bearer is optimistic, alert and honest, open-minded and in-depth, loyal, driven and decisive, warm-hearted and cautious, instinctive, sensual, astute and moralistic, resilient and a convincing type.

You maneuver between extrovert and introvert behavior. Periods of expressiveness and activity alternate with times of reflection and introspection, and vice versa. This way, you can function optimally. Your rational side becomes extremely alert and sharp as soon as a subject or issue fascinates you. You get to the heart of the matter, very quickly. But beneath the surface, your intense sensitivity is always stirring, which works quite mysteriously. Concentration, is your strength.

Conviction, imagination and perseverance give you strategic talent. As soon as you know what you want, you do everything you can, energetically and diligently. With that endurance you can move mountains and climb steadily, provided you aim high and don't get distracted by emotional extremes.

You are definitely smart, not just intellectually, also in the sense of refined and well-rounded. Your insight and overview, zest for life and courage, are guided by a sensitive instinct. This gives you empathy, allowing you to understand, characterize and advise your fellow human beings clearly, succinctly and well-considered. With those intense qualities, such as inspiration and a powerful, albeit complicated, emotional life, your life path may lead you to extremes. Your great ideals make you reach for the top, but not without exploring deep valleys. In this way you train self-discipline and learn to take the bait, so that you ultimately achieve every goal with admirable zest.

From worldly ideals to personal passions, from noble justice to the temptations of dubious sensations; If something captures your imagination, you will be captivated. You are eager to learn, open-minded and objective. Rationally, you know how to put human tendencies and limitations, into perspective. Your vision is well-thought-out, and based on your own experiences and research. But you also involuntarily pursue pure passion. Your strong desires and vitality require constant encouragement. You are closed about your inner feelings, while you long for confirmation and stimulation. The desire to explore the world is as strong as the urge to transcend reality, making a creative outlet crucial to your well-being. Whether it concerns studying or traveling, you are constantly looking forward to exciting plans and regularly wander through the caverns of the unconscious. With such a progressive and penetrating talent, life rarely goes smoothly. Survive and conquer, reach heights or depths, you cannot help but explore the many fascinating facets of existence, so that you can tell others about them or let them hear, see, and feel, what it is all about.

Ascendant Gemini, Sun in Sagittarius.

Here the personality has grown into an individual who easily enthusiastically conveys to others what vision he has acquired in life. He has chosen a vision that has been given to him from his background, or that he has acquired himself, and which necessarily carries limitations because it reflects one particular view. In soul contact he learns more and more, through feedback, how he can integrate other views into his vision. By talking about it with many, his vision is enriched by the knowledge and experience of others, and therefore becomes more universal.

Now that I have been giving a wide description of the Serpent Bearer, it is time for something else. I have dealt with many strange things in life, which also includes a certain pattern. It has nothing to do with the afterlife or psychic abilities. This is something completely different.

The Holy Trinity.

Waking up the dead!

My life is very complicated, and that for someone who strives for a simple life. The thing is that I have had an identity all my life, but have never been aware of it myself. That is not very strange, since we in the Netherlands do not recognize the shaman. In Western society I would rather be called a psychic, but for me, this term does not fully cover my life. A shaman and a psychic both have psychic abilities, but with the shaman this goes much broader. For the shaman, it is about gaining unique experiences, in the broadest sense of the word. This also includes gaining experience with different types of drugs or diseases. In addition to being gifted, I am also aware of the existence of the afterlife and even UFOs. I am familiar with astrology and numerology, both of which form the building blocks of human behavior. In short, being a shaman goes much further than having psychic abilities. The shaman must be fully aware of reality, its functioning and its limits. In this sense, there is another very essential experience that I want to share with you. It is time to awaken the "spiritual" dead.

As you have read, I have experiences with psychic abilities and the afterlife. The topic I am going to discuss now, is something entirely different and unique. I have come into contact with a very specific pattern several times in my life. I experienced this during my unstable mental period, a period that was all about discovering reality. When I started noticing the pattern, I told my father about it, but he eventually hung up the phone angrily, thinking I was crazy. Yet, there has never been a moment that I have doubted my own eyes.

The pattern is special and is characteristic of the fact that it took place over various periods. There have been at least three times, when this pattern occurred. The characteristic is that it always concerns things that you normally never see or experience, but then three times in a row in just an hour or less. As I went through these experiences, I quickly began to understand the game. At the first step, I knew what was coming, and there were always two more events to follow. It is very striking that every time I started to understand the pattern from the first moment, and started to predict it by saying it out loud, the pattern completed itself and then stopped. Looking back at things, makes me realize that the hint had gotten through. Then a few years passed, and the pattern started again.

It is also very striking that there are three events that behave as one. The first element is the warning, the second element is the true test, and the third element is the confirmation. The first event indicated that there would be a test, then I had to pass this test. In this test, my life, or anyone else's, was always hanging by a thread. It's truly a miracle I'm still alive. The third event was the confirmation, in that you saw this event coming far in advance.

I can still remember my very first experience very well. First impressions are important, as they say. I was working at the post office at the time and my job was to empty mailboxes. Before I left home, my mother shouted at me to be careful. Normally, she never said this. When I wanted to get into the car, I also got a warning feeling. Something inside me told me to be careful. Then it is fifteen minutes later, and out of nowhere a truck arrives at full speed, which took the bend too wide, then forced me onto the side of the road, and I stopped at the edge of a ditch. This was the warning.

Then it's half an hour later and I go for my second round. I arrive at a mailbox and I get a feeling that tells me I should put on my seat belt. With my ADHD, I lost this thought after two seconds because I was distracted for a moment. Then I get into the car and I don't put on my seat belt. I drive away quietly, and I arrive at a blind bend, and suddenly a car appears right in front of me. This person, overtook the vehicle in front of him, at more than 80 kilometers per hour in this blind bend. He managed to steer away at the very last moment and I saw the passengers of the other car, with their hands over their mouths in fright. The fact is, I should have come a tenth of a second earlier or later, and I would have been dead from a head-on collision. I survived because I forgot to put on my seat belt. It would have been that extra second that killed me. Long live ADHD!

I was furious, and I was able to turn my car around and chase this person and kick the shit out of him. However, I had a postal uniform on, and I could not do that on behalf of the company. I am seething with anger and I drive to the next mailbox. After emptying, I drove quietly away and arrived at a road with an adjacent parking lot. I see a woman driving away from this area at full speed. I saw it coming well in advance and managed to stop my car. If I hadn't done this, that bitch would have rammed her car into my side at full throttle. You would expect someone to apologize, but instead she was angry with me. As you can see, there were three near misses, and all occurred in about an hour.

Yet, this was not all. This pattern also appeared in other forms. The best example concerns three cars. The pattern has the following features; all three cars are completely identical to each other. They are from the same brand and from the same series. Two of these cars are blue and one is red. The blue and red cars come from the right, and a single blue car comes from the left.

This pattern also came back in my dreams. I mentioned the three dreams I had, which I wrote down. It was exactly 6 years later, down to the minute, that I would incorporate the stories into a text document. After analyzing those dreams, I once again saw this particular pattern.

In my first dream, I encounter naked twins. They stood in a dark, flooded basement on a small concrete platform in the corner. The long black hair hung in front of their faces and yet, I had the strong impression that they were very handsome. In the second dream, I meet the sister of a friend. In that dream, everything I touch breaks and everyone in my dream starts to hate me. His sister stood up for me, and in that dream she was also completely naked. In the third dream, I walk from the dunes to the beach, and it is characterized by orange sand. I am thirsty and in the middle of the beach there is a tap from which I can drink. Then I walk to the sea and I see an old classmate in the shape of triplets. Two of her were topless and one of them was wearing a bikini top. I am then faced with a choice and without any doubt, I choose the bikini version, and that is where my dream ends. As you can see, there is a pattern in the form of naked women. The order is two, one, three. It really does know how to get my attention. However, the question is: Who or what does the bikini version represent? Is it the red car, or the single blue one, or maybe both? I'm clearly going for the exception.

Germanic mythology.

I got the 213 pattern I just described when I was at the age of 24, for the first time in my life, and at the age of 33, I never heard of it again. All this time I have endured everything, and have not asked any questions. For many years, I made several attempts to discover what the pattern refers to, but always without result. When I was 39 years old, I finally made the discovery I had been looking for all along. I came across it accidentally. After 15 years of searching, I finally found the answer. I was into ancient cultures, and I was interested in our Germanic ancestors and their vision of life. I was working on creation stories and I came across the story of the three Gods, from Germanic mythology.

Their names are Vili, Fay, and Odin. They are brothers, and they are equal as triplets. The story tells that there is a great void, which is then filled by the three Gods. The God who initiated the simulation was Fay. Fay is known as a Delusion, Vili and Odin are known as an Ace. In short, we have three brothers who are completely identical to each other, and there are two different parties. It are two blue cars, the Aces Vili and Odin, versus a red car, a Delusion called Fay. By the way, the word delusion refers to illusion. Germanic mythology, has indicated from moment number one, that we live in an illusion/simulation. Odin and Vili, rule over the afterlife, and Fay rules over this simulation.

According to the story, it was Fay who first joined the void. Fay generated all matter. Everything about matter in this universe, comes from this God. Yet, the Gods were not at peace among themselves, there was a battle going on between Odin (humanity) and Fay (the animal instinct). To prevent further war, they decided to make an exchange between certain important figures.

The God Vili, the blue car, entered the simulation, and joined the red car. This has been a critical step. Fay is an energy that is completely devoted to the animal instinct, and Vili is a God who balances the animal instinct. Vili brought order into the chaos. You should see Vili as the chemist. He put matter together in such a way that a body was created. In addition to creating different types of life, Vili is the God who rules over the creation of life and evolution. Still, the body itself, is nothing more than dead material.

At the last step, comes the God of the afterlife, and his name is Odin. He is the single blue car. It is Odin who gave permission to the soul, to enter a body, in order to enter into this simulation. So all three Gods, work together and complement each other. So it was all three Gods, together, who made life possible within this simulation.

Here is the pattern. All three Gods are identical to each other. They're brothers. Two of them represent an Ace and another the Delusion. After the God Exchange, this simulation is maintained by an Ace (Vili) and a Delusion (Fay). Odin represents the afterlife, or rather, the origin of the soul. It's a blue and a red car, versus a single blue car. The order is Vili (2), Fay (1) and Odin (3). This refers to the polarity of the Gods. Vili is neutral, Fay is negative, and Odin is positive. When the Gods enter into contact with man, all three come together as one. It is better known as the Holy Trinity. So there is no single ruling power. Power is divided equally among the three Gods, who always come as one, each with their own test and assignment. Everything good, comes in steps of three.

By the way, the Gods never spoke a word to me, nor did they give me any special superpowers. Everything went through pure symbolism. The Gods have the power to take over an entire environment with the snap of their fingers. This is so very subtle that the people themselves never notice it. I also had to discover the answer to everything myself. The Gods gave me the hints and knew that in the future I would crack the code. That is why it has been quiet for years, the message had gotten across and I paid close attention. I continued, despite everyone thinking I was crazy. Contact with the three Gods can also occur through dreams. Each of them, gave me a separate dream, with each their own message.

The beginning of time.

When I made my discovery of the Gods, I immediately wondered if I could discover their identity. I started looking at several old sources and very soon I would come across a familiar pattern. In this case, it appears that Fay, represents the zodiac sign of Scorpio, Vili, represents Libra, and Odin represents the Serpent Bearer. If I put everything in numerological order, I arrive at a 789 combination. In short, the Gods represent the last three steps in numerology.

I am also familiar with the series of 147, 258 and 369, and decided to merge both patterns. When I had done this, it made me realize that I had dissected the body of the Gods. The body of Vili consists of the zodiac signs: Aries, Cancer, Libra, Sagittarius and Pisces. All constellations together represent the God Vili. The body of Fay consists of the constellations: Taurus, Leo, Scorpio and Capricorn. The body of Odin consists of: Gemini, Virgo, the Serpent Bearer, and Aquarius.

To understand everything, we have to go back to the God Exchange and the origin story. What exactly has been extracted on an astrological level? Fay was the God who initiated the simulation. This God is purely about animal instincts. There were no rules and everything was raw and hard. The simulation was in a state of chaos, unable to accommodate life. There was no way for the soul to become one with this simulation.

To solve this problem, Vili was sent out. He joined the simulation, and his goal was to bring balance and equilibrium. He created the final conditions of life. Vili is a God who controls animal instincts, in the extreme sense. The object, Libra, is the central element and is surrounded by animals. Fay and Vili go well together in that sense, because they both share the animal nature.

Vili keeps Fay's behavior under control. This relationship can also be found in Odin, where the Serpent Bearer controls the Gemini. Vili then created with matter the first concept of the body (bacterium), which was suitable to carry a soul. Finally, there is Odin, he who gives permission to the soul, to be part of the simulation or body. As God, Odin is purely dedicated to humanity. All the zodiac signs he represents, are of the human type.

Odin differs and seems to be unique, yet the Gods have a mutual relationship. Vili and Fay both revolve around the animals. Vili is an air element, which is complemented by the elements of fire and water. If we put all three elements together, they form the element lightning. Odin and Vili are both lightning gods, also known as Aces.

Odin and Fay also have a relationship. Odin represents the Serpent Bearer, which consists of the constellations of Scorpio and Sagittarius. Sagittarius is part of Vili and Scorpio is part of Fay. Fay is all about chaos, and this also applies to thunder, which is part of Odin.

Yet, this is not all. I came to the conclusion that the Gods represent all constellations or, rather, universal energies. So we are surrounded by God's body, and we are all made in the image of the Gods. We as humans also possess a trinity, called the sun, moon, and ascendant. I got rid of my depression because I finally honored the build of the Gods. So what it means is that self-development and self-knowledge is the instrument that brings you closer to the Gods, not religion. Therefore, the goal is to do justice to the Gods as best as possible, by simply utilizing your zodiac signs to their fullest potential. This is the so-called key to happiness, which is different for everyone.

Also realize, that this story from Germanic mythology, was chosen by the Gods. This is the identity and the role they play. When I look at the general message of the Gods, it seems there are certain demands that we in life must meet.

The first point is that you must become familiar with the workings of the afterlife. You are not meant to get stuck, and you must realize that your actions have their consequences. You have to become aware, as it were, of what is to come. Please don't be the type who has been dead for years and thinks you're still alive because you don't recognize death. It is not the intention to linger in the temporary life you have led.

The second message, is that you must be familiar with yourself. The idea is that you learn to make your own choices consciously and be able to substantiate all these choices. So, in this case, everything revolves around spirituality. To get this started, use the basics of astrology, focusing on your Sun, Moon, and Ascendant. You do not have to order a birth horoscope to obtain this information. Everything can be calculated and found for free on the internet.

The third point, is that the Gods want us as humans to be aware of the simulation and its building blocks, and to benefit from it. Life is not only science, but also spirituality. Both together form the key. The mutual competition that exists has been created by people who have labeled themselves scientists. This conflict is nothing more than a human creation. In nature, both sciences go very well together.

My weapon of choice.

In my life, I have a very strong connection to the so called trias politica. Everything revolves around the final judgment, and I have to achieve this by taking the initiative and forming my own judgment. I can't lean on others. For example, my planets are only distributed among the zodiac signs of Libra, Scorpio, and Sagittarius. I'm a judge of sorts, which means my judgment in this book matters. The order of the trias politica is 213 and goes as follows:

- (8) Scorpio is the zodiac sign that collects information and sees through manipulative behavior with a sharp eye. It is in a sense a negative energy because it does not trust everyone. This information is then passed on to Libra.
- (7) Libra represents a neutral energy. It hates conflict. Libra weighs the good versus the bad. The Libra then transfers this information over, to the Serpent Bearer.
- (9) The Serpent Bearer stands for knowledge and wisdom, and determines what the punishment or reward will be, based on the information of Libra. The Serpent Bearer is completely focused on conflict, and makes decisions very quickly. This sign is positive because everyone gets what he or she deserves.

In short, I have the ability to collect facts, analyze and weigh them, and then make a worthy final judgment. However, I have noticed that it is essential, that I have the right and correct information, before I form a final judgement. I am also dependent on the knowledge that is available today. I want to see things from all sides, the positive, and the negative, and then create a worthy judgment. When it comes to that, I am a true realist. I will always continue to strive, to find the ultimate truth.

Basic numerology.

SPIRITUALITY

Spirituality: Plan of action.

When it comes to spirituality, you just need to be familiar with your sun, moon and ascendant, also known as the birth-triad. It is important that you apply numerology, and then see how both data work together. In a sense, you don't need additional information to make your life a success. If you have researched and analyzed that information, and you still want to go deeper, then I recommend ordering a birth chart. This horoscope gives you an insight into the script you are following. It includes someone's fate. In a sense, it is your personal manual.

Numerology is a simple way to determine someone's title. In numerology, there is a maximum of 9 numbers. After the number 9, everything keeps repeating itself. I would discover that the first 9 zodiac signs of astrology, are bound to the 9 numbers of numerology. What is also important to know, is that the numbers 1 to 4, represent 2 zodiac signs. In such case, you need to determine afterward, which one it is.

So, what is the difference between Sagittarius and Aries? What I would discover, is that Aries and Sagittarius, have only a slight difference. Aries tends to solve everything with his hands, and Sagittarius solves everything with his brain. In short, one is physically strong and the other is strong mentally. For the rest, both are the same. If you look at Taurus and Capricorn, the difference is that Taurus is focused on reaching its own goals in life, while Capricorn lets other people do the work to reach their personal goals. Taurus has its own store, and Capricorn runs a company. If you look at Gemini and Aquarius, the Gemini is good in one-on-one conversations, and Aquarius stands on a podium to address the crowd. Cancer is good at caring for people on a personal level, and Pisces wants to take care of everybody. As you can see, Aries, Taurus, Gemini and Cancer, both focus on an individual level, while Sagittarius, Capricorn, Aquarius, and Pisces, focusses on the crowd.

There are two types of people. We have a type that has overall potential, and we have the specialist. If the name and birth-triad, have little similarity, we can say that we have a person who is good overall, but does not excel in anything. If the name closely matches your birth-triad, then you may not be able to do many things in life, but the things you can do, you have lots of potential, in becoming a master.

However, there is an exception to the specialist. If you, as a specialist, do not encounter your specialty in life, then you will not become a specialist. I am a master of numerology and have my own formula. Yet, I was already at the age of 33, before someone made me aware of the existence of numerology. I had never heard of it at the time. If I had not taken the initiative to see what it was, I would never have become a master in numerology. In short, sometimes in life, you need to discover what your specialty is, and this can take many years. My advice is, always listen to your feelings, follow this inner feeling, and you will get there eventually.

Pythagoras 2.0.

The form of numerology that we know today, comes from Pythagoras. He even had to go underground with this knowledge. It is claimed that Pythagoras got his information from Ancient Egypt. As you can see, numerology goes back a long way and was used extensively in the past. In fact, in the past, it was the most popular form of mathematics because it is simple and easy to apply.

Pythagoras gave us the basic model and I continued to build on this knowledge. Yet, I note that numerology is a science, of which almost nothing is left. It has been completely neglected, and I see this as an opportunity to reintroduce it. The rules have largely changed when Napoleon made a surname mandatory for everyone, so it is time for a new doctrine.

Numerology is a very powerful tool, as you can symbolically bring the dead back to life. If you want to make a proper character analysis, you have to study both astrology and numerology and know that both carry equal value. In addition, my formula allows you to make a calculation in advance, to see how the name relates to the birth-triad. In a sense, the Russian roulette is over. When it comes to analysis, my model provides an overview of your relationship with each zodiac sign. You can see which types of people suit you the best. Let's start with the first basic steps of numerology.

Simplify.

The name you have matters. It's not just the name, the number of letters that make up the name also plays an important role. What I have noticed, is that most successful people, have a name that is aligned with their birth triad. The constellations correspond with each other.

In numerology, you convert a name into a series of numbers. Then you add all the numbers together. You continue adding numbers, until you have one digit left. What makes numerology so difficult, is the fact that every language has its own alphabet. If you are Italian, you use a 21 letter alphabet and as a Russian, you use the 33 Cyrillic letters. In the Netherlands, where I live, we use 26 letters.

You should always calculate a name, in the person's original language. It makes numerology very difficult and yet, it remains very easy. The rule for creating the model, is always the same. You start with the numbers 1 to 9, and then you put the alphabet underneath, in the order you were taught. When you get to the end, you go back to the beginning. This rule applies to all languages. So every language, has its own numerological calculation table.

Unlike astrology, numerology is extremely flexible because it automatically adapts to changing circumstances. Our Dutch model looks like this. Read the table from left to right, to discover the construction and from top to bottom, if you want to know the value of a letter. To calculate a name, we must first convert this name into a series of numbers. See here the example of the name Ophiuchus. By the way, this is the official name of the Serpent Bearer. I always call the series of numbers, the name-frequency. The next step is to continue counting until we have one digit left. In short, we are going to simplify.

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Α	В	С	D	Ε	F	G	Н	-
J	K	L	М	N	0	Р	Q	R
S	Т	U	V	W	Χ	Υ	Z	-

To calculate a name, we must first convert this name into numbers. If we do this, a series of numbers is created. See here the example of the name Ophiuchus. By the way, this is the official name of the Snake Bearer.

0	Р	Н	I	U	С	Н	U	S
6	7	8	9	3	3	8	3	1

I always call the series of numbers the name frequency. The next step is to continue counting until we have one digit left. In short, we are going to simplify.

Ophiuchus = 678933831.

- 6+7+8+9+3+3+8+3+1 = 48.
- 48 = 4+8 = 12.
- 12 = 1+2 = 3.

In this example, the Serpent Bearer is linked by his name, to the constellation of Gemini.

Odin's formula also symbolically allows you, to bring the deceased back to life. You can discover someone's character and educational path, without knowing their date of birth. Just the name is enough. However, there is also a caveat to this. If you have to calculate a very old name, you must use the alphabet that was used, at that time. Over time, our own alphabet has evolved from 21 letters to 26 letters. The current alphabet was established in the year 1691. Names before that time are almost impossible to calculate, unless you have the alphabet, that was valid at that time.

As you noticed, I link the numbers to constellations. I do this because I have discovered that they are connected. Astrology and numerology are two different sciences, yet they both use the same building blocks.

The title of the name.

A name consists of several parts. Each name you bear represents its own zodiac sign. When you make a calculation in numerology, the entire name matters, including middle names. The name you are looking for is the name you received on your birth certificate.

0	Р	Н	I	U	С	Н	U	S	D	ı	S	С	U	S
6	7	8	9	3	3	8	3	1	4	9	1	3	3	1

Each name you have, represents its own zodiac sign. When you make a calculation in numerology, the entire name matters, that includes all middle names. The name you are looking for is the name you received on your birth certificate.

First we calculate each name, and at the end, we look at the entire name. This way you can see your so-called titles. The first method is by creating a name-frequency, and then calculate the value of each name. The second method is really simple, is about the number of letters your name consists of.

Let's do a calculation, based on the title of this book.

- Ophiuchus = 6 7 8 9 3 3 8 3 1 = 48 = 12 = 3 = Gemini.
- Discus = 4 9 1 3 3 1 = 21 = 3 = Gemini.
- Ophiuchus Discus = 3+3 = 6 = Virgo.

So what does this name say? This person is all about communication, is intelligent and flexible. The Gemini symbolizes the messenger of the Gods. Together they form Virgo. With Virgo everything is about perfection and being solution-oriented.

In the following method, we only count the number of letters in the name.

- Ophiuchus = 9 letters = Serpent Bearer.
- Discus = 6 letters = Virgo.
- Ophiuchus Discus = 9+6 = 15 = 6 = Virgo.

Now that we have calculated both values, it's time to look at what each name stands for. It is time we merge both methods.

- Ophiuchus = Gemini and Serpent Bearer.
- Discus = Gemini and Virgo.
- Ophiuchus Discus = Virgo and Virgo.

As you can see, the title only scores as a human type and thus shows a connection with the God Odin. It's like it was meant to be.

- Ophiuchus is a messenger who is all about knowledge and wisdom.
- Discus is a messenger who strives for perfection and is solution-oriented.
- Ophiuchus Discus is the book that strives for perfection and is solution-oriented.

So there are two standard formulas that carry a value in numerology, and the goal is to merge them as one. Look at the keywords of the zodiac signs and you will get an idea of what someone's name stands for. In a way, this method shows the appearance of someone. It's a title.

All or nothing.

I want to close with something important, before I get into Odin's formula. I have said it a number of times before, that the Serpent Bearer is all about extremes. It's all or nothing. This behavior is associated with the number 9. To make this clear, let's add numbers in the first example, and multiply the numbers in the second example. Let's say we start with the number seven. No matter how many nines I add to the seven, the seven always retains its identity. In this case, I will leave out the calculation for the most part, I go directly to the answer.

- 7+9 = 16 = 7.
- \bullet 7+999 = 1,006 = 7.
- 7+99+99+999 = 1,204 = 7.

As you can see, the nine sacrifices itself, to keep another person in his value. This means that the Serpent Bearer is all about self-sacrifice.

Now we're going to change the rules. Instead of adding, we will only multiply.

- 9x7 = 63 = 9.
- 999x123 = 122,877 = 27 = 9.
- 9x67x82x41 = 2,027,286 = 27 = 9.

This is the moment when the Serpent Bearer is completely dominant. In this case it destroys the other and replaces it. It doesn't matter what random numbers you add to the 9, it always ends in 9.

The same applies to the multiple of 9.

- 18x7 = 126 = 9.
- 27x87 = 2,349 = 18 = 9.
- 36x565 = 5,085 = 18 = 9.

As you can see, the Serpent Bearer consists of pure extremes, it is all or nothing. It sacrifices itself for the other, or it destroys the other and replaces it.

In numerology, with Odin's formula, something else is going on. The 9 is extremely dominant, but as a rule the 9 always counters itself. It cannot change its identity, so it always forms its own counter or enemy.

Odin's formula.

The formula of Odin.

The first two methods were simple in nature, giving an idea of someone's identity or title. It is mainly the appearance. Odin's formula, reveals a score for each of those constellations. Odin's formula therefore looks at the inner self, or that which is hidden. The formula consists of two parts. The first method is very straightforward. I recommend that you always use a calculator, to avoid unnecessary mistakes. I always do my calculations behind a computer, because I can easily create a model in a text document.

The first method captures the basic values of the name. The second method consists of finding master numbers. It means that you make duos, and learn to recognize mirror numbers. The idea is to get as many master numbers from the name as possible and to solve the name completely. Each name is solvable, meaning you'll never be left, with an unused number.

This formula has many steps, but the end result is worth it. I have to admit that the first time I used this formula, it took me four hours to figure it out. The second time I went to do it, it took an hour and a half. After a few exercises, I now make a calculation within 10 minutes, and then I take it easy. It's literally a matter of practice makes perfect. It's something you have to learn to see, and it's a bit like doing a puzzle.

Master and mirror numbers.

I was always taught that master numbers always consist of a trio of three equal digits. My formula, on the other hand, is aimed at pairs. So every pair you find in the name, equals a master number. That is not as simple as it seems, because master numbers are often hidden. You frequently have to play with the numbers, to bring him forward. The bottom line is that you have to create pairs, by simplifying, in order to create a new identity.

In addition to simple master numbers, there is also the so-called mirror number. I call it a mirror number because, as a rule, it is automatically countered by its counterpart. However, this mirror image deviates slightly. A mirror number always consists of a trio. The outer values are the same, and the middle value, differs. A few examples are: 6 1 6, 3 6 3, 8 2 8 and 5 7 5.

- 616 is countered by a 161 = 777.
- 363 is countered by a 636 = 999.
- 828 is countered by a 282 = 10/10/10 = 111.
- 575 is countered by a 757 = 12/12/12 = 333.

If you want to find the master number of a mirror number quickly, you can also add a single outer value to the middle value, and simplify it. Very important note: If you find a mirror number, it means it has a shared value. You can only use the digits of a normal master number once, unless part of that series, is part of a previous or next mirror number. Each digit that is part of a mirror number, can be used twice, to form a new master or mirror number.

Calculating the base value.

During the explanation of the first method, I will try to explain, what I did at each step. There is a logical thought, behind every step. In this case, I will use the name Ophiuchus Discus. I'll keep this short and simple for the first explanation. Later in this book, I apply the formula to myself. It can happen in rare situations, that the name can end with two different master numbers. In such a doubtful case, both master numbers apply, but both have a shared value of 5%, instead of a full 10%.

Step 1: Converting the name.

This step is very simple, but you have to be careful not to make a mistake, because it means that you have to calculate everything over.

- First, use the full and legal name. That includes middle names.
- Second, make sure you know which country someone is from. Use the alphabet and symbolism as appropriate.
- Also pay attention to the time a person lived, and use the alphabet that applied at the time.
- Preferably use this information in combination with the sun, moon and ascendant, from astrology, for the true picture.

As I said, I use the name Ophiuchus Discus. Ophiuchus is the official name of the Serpent Bearer and the name Discus refers to my throwing stone. I want to symbolically throw it right on your nose and wake you up for reality and its workings.

				ט
6	7	8	9	3	3	8	3	1	4	9	1	3

First, we calculate the name frequency of the title: Ophiuchus Discus. Now that we have converted the name into the so-called name frequency, it is time to count how often a number appears in the name. We do this by setting up a table from 1 to 9, and then count each number.

No.	Number:
1	3x
2	0x
3	5x
4	1x
5	0x
6	1x
7	1x
8	2x
9	2x

Now that I've analyzed the name, I'll double-check everything. In this case, the name consists of 15 letters, and I recommend you check this step an extra time, just in case to be certain, you haven't missed a letter.

Step 2: Calculating the positive value.

We take the previous model and expand it with a column. In this case, we need to look at how much a single letter is worth. We calculate this by dividing 100% by the number of letters. (100% divided by 15 letters = 6.66%) In this case, each letter has a value of 6.66%. All we are going to do now is multiply this value, by the number of times a number appears in the name. This way, we get to see what the positive value is. Please don't hesitate to pause the video, to let things sink in.

No.	Number %:	Positive %:
1	3 x 6,66	20
2	0 x 6,66	0
3	5 x 6,66	33,3
4	1 x 6,66	6,6
5	0 x 6,66	0
6	1 x 6,66	6,6
7	1 x 6,66	6,6
8	2 x 6,66	13,3
9	2 x 6,66	13,3

Step 3: The counter value.

What always bothers me, is that astrology usually focuses on only the positive. I am always interested in the negative because I want to know both sides of the story. In this simulation, everything is in a state of balance and equilibrium. It also means that when you choose something, you automatically lose on another. In short, everything has its price. This principle applies to everything, including the formula.

See the following table. If we multiply, this produces a counter. I call this name-frequency, the shadow name. This name frequency counters the name, and therefore I call it the shadow.

We may not know the shadow name, but we do know what numbers it consists of and how many letters. The number zero has no value and is automatically deleted. That's all we need to know. The shadow name is 3 6 4 6 7 7 9, and consists of 7 letters.

Why are we multiplying? You calculate the counter value, by multiplying the number, by the number of times it occurs. With the 9, it always automatically counters itself. We are multiplying because It is all about symbolism. If we look at the plus sign, and we tilt it 90 degrees, it remains a cross. The identity remains the same. In such a case, you have to tilt the symbol by 45 degrees, and that gives us the multiplication symbol. In short, as symbols they counter each other.

No.	Number:	Positive:
1	1 x 3 =	3
2	2 x 0 =	0
3	3 x 5 =	(15) 6
4	4 x 1 =	4
5	5 x 0 =	0
6	6 x 1 =	6
7	7 x 1 =	7
8	8 x 2 =	(16) 7
9	9 x 2 =	(18) 9

Step 4: The negative value.

We go back to step one and step two. The new shadow name we are going to calculate is 3 6 4 6 7 7 9. Again, we have to count, how many times a number appears in the name. The second step, is to calculate the value per letter. The shadow name consists of 7 letters. (100% divided by 7 letters = 14.2%). So, each letter, has a negative value of 14.2%. Again, we multiply the number of times with this negative value, to get an overview.

No.	Number %:	Negative %:
3	1	14,2
4	1 14,2
6	2	28,5
7	2	28,5
9	1	14,2

Step 5: The basic value.

See the temporary end result, in the following table. Now that we have calculated both values, it is time to merge both. This provides a base value. However, you cannot yet draw any conclusions from this result. Everything can still change in the next step of the formula. Yet, my title of the book seems quite extreme at first glance. It seems like all or nothing. It is either excellent or terrible. As I said before, it is important that you look to the relation, with your zodiac signs from astrology.

No.	Positive %:	Negative %:	Basis %:
1	20	0	20
3	33,3	14,2	19,1
4	6,6	14,2	-7,6
5	0	0	0
6	6,6	28,5	-21,9
7	6,6	28,5	-21,9
8	13,3	0	13,3
9	13,3	14,2	-0,9

The method of dharma.

Here I give an example of how to play with the numbers. In this case, it is about creating as many master and mirror numbers, as possible. It is a kind of insight that you have to acquire yourself. Once you get the hang of it, you'll have the answers within a couple of minutes. Let's start with the name Ophiuchus Discus.

Normally, you would put the names together as one, in this example I am doing each name individually, to keep it more manageable, especially if it is your first time.

OPHIUCHUS = 678933831.

I see a master number hidden in the first three numbers. To discover this master number, we will only use addition and simplification. Multiplication does not occur in this phase. Let's get started.

The numbers 6 7 8 correspond to the master number 6 6 6. Here is how it looks.

• OPH = 678 = 6 and (78), = 6 and (15), = 66, = master number 666.

The numbers 6 7 8, are part of a direct master number 6 6 6. It consists of an equal duo. As I already indicated, you can only use the numbers of a master number once, after which it is removed from the name frequency. In this case, part of this master number, is part of a subsequent mirror number. We keep the 7 and 8, because they as a number, have a shared value. The 6 is therefore eliminated and the 7 and 8 are reused.

The next mirror number I see is (7 8 9 3 3). Here is the calculation of the mirror number 6 9 6.

• PHIUC=78933=(78), 9, and (33), = (15), 9, and (6), = mirror number 696 = master number 666.

The numbers 7 and 8 have now been used twice. They drop out of the name frequency. The following is what we are left with.

• IUCHUS=933831.

The numbers 9 3 3 were part of a mirror number, so we can use these numbers a second time, to create a new mirror or master number.

• IUC = 9 3 3 = (12) and 3, = 33, = master number 3 3 3.

The master number is therefore 3 3 3. These numbers have now also been used for a second time and are removed from the name frequency. What we are left with are the numbers 8 3 1.

H U S = 8 3 1 = 83 and 1, = (11), 1, = master number 1 1 1.

Now it's time for the surname Discus. Please note that you normally calculate the entire name at once, because there may be an overlap between the names. In this case, it works out that the names can both be calculated separately, with the same result.

DISCUS = 491331.

• DISC = 4913 = 4, 9, and (13), = mirror number 494 = master number 444.

The last step left is.

• SCUS=1331=(13) and (31), = 44, = master number 444.

As you can see, all letters of the name have been used in the formula. We have not skipped any. This is usually the indication, that you have performed the formula correctly. Overview of master numbers are: 6 6 6, 6 6 6, 3 3 3, 1 1 1, 4 4 4 and 4 4 4. Now we go back to the model of the basic value, and supplement it with the scored master numbers. Each master number, has a value of plus 10 percent.

No.	Basis %:	Master %:	Final value %:
1	20	+10	30
3	19,1	+10	29,1
4	-7,6	+20	12,4
5	0	0	0
6	-21,9	+20	-1,9
7	-21,9	0	-21,9
8	13,3	0	13,3
9	-0,9	0	-0.9

Now that we have calculated the values, it is time to look at the meaning. I have a model that indicates the zodiac sign, but also the life theme. It provides extra overview of what you have calculated. I hope the calculation method has become clear. Later in this book, I apply this formula to myself. I string together one mirror number after another, and it is therefore less suitable as a first example, which is why I chose the title of this book. It is time we take a look at the final results, so things start to make sense.

No:	Final value %:	Constellation:	Keywords:
1	30	Aries	Life energy and action oriented.
2	0	Taurus	Patience and perseverance.
3	29,1	Gemini	Communication and flexibility.
4	12,4	Cancer	Care and emotions.
5	0	Leo	Leadership and service.
6	-1,9	Virgo	Perfection and solution-oriented.
7	-21,9	Libra.	Balance and harmony.
8	13,3	Scorpio.	Truth and the Occult.
9	-0.9	Serpent Bearer	Knowledge and wisdom.
10 (1)	30	Sagittarius	Freedom and justice.
11 (2)	0	Capricorn.	Reliability and discipline.
12 (3)	29,1	Aquarius	Innovative and rebellious.
13 (4)	12,4	Pisces.	Spirituality and fantasy.

Conclusion: Formula of Odin.

Now that we have calculated everything and merged both methods together, we get to see the end values.

- A value between 1 and 10 percent, is called mildly. You have this trait but not very strong.
- A value between 10 and 20 percent, is called strong. You have this trait and it is hard to overcome.
- A value over 20 percent is called extreme. It is a strong character trait, which you can't change.
- If you score 0 percent, that means you own/master that zodiac sign, you can use all its traits.

In this case, my book is not afraid to enter into conflict with everyone, see negative Libra. This is the build of a trouble maker. My book disrupts the existing value and view we have of reality. It is aimed at Scorpio, which is all about truth and the hidden. So it is a battle for the truth. I score highest on the Aries and Gemini, which is in contrast to my own build.

Before I end this chapter, I want you to know that I am the only one with this formula. When it comes down to my personal results, I can see what is meant by each score. I can only speak for myself. Because I am the only one, there is need for a lot of research, before we can draw hard conclusions. The problem is that only people on the level of spirituality, can draw these conclusions. You need to be completely aware of yourself, and not be ashamed for the things you are weak at. This revealing of the formula is just the start. I hope that people in the future will use this formula in their benefit. When it comes down to names, the best ones come spontaneously.

Nemesis.

False promises.

Nemesis is a figure from Greek mythology. She is the ruthless goddess of righteous revenge, but also of equality. Nemesis is the daughter of the night, and she obeys Zeus. The name Nemesis means handing out the deserved punishment.

I would like to conclude the topic of spirituality, with my vision and opinion on religion. If you are religious, I will give you a hard time. It's time for the truth to be outed. As a shaman, I am very aware of the laws in the afterlife. It has struck me that people with religion, receive absolutely no preferential treatment. This is already a hint, that religion has little value in the afterlife. It also applies the other way around, you don't have to be religious to get to heaven.

What bothers me even more is the fact that these religions all claim to bring you closer to God. They promise you a good final judgment, and no one can promise you the latter. Every person is responsible for their own thoughts and actions. You can dedicate your whole life to Jesus, but if you choose to kill and condemn other people, you can pray until you weigh an ounce, you will simply remain behind on Earth. As you can see, religion makes all kinds of heavy promises, that it cannot keep.

Yet, it becomes even more painful. In the past, I have often been misled by false information. Since then, I have always been very focused on where the story all began. I am interested in the origins, and from there I will find my way. The problem I experience, is that the Christian and Catholic faith, is based on people, who claim to have come into contact with God. For example: Moses committed murder and claims to have spoken to God shortly afterward. My experience says that this personal meeting has been completely impossible, as the Gods do not speak any language. In short, religion is based on figures who have presented themselves as the representatives of God. If they had been in contact, they would have referred you to the existing trinity without vague language, which is a very unique feature. There is no religion in the world, that has noticed this aspect correctly, except Germanic mythology, which no longer exists.

When it comes to my assessment of Christianity and the Catholic Church, we are in an immediate state of war. As I have already stated, I am a pure Serpent Bearer. I would discover that Christianity purposefully erased me from history in the year 1100 AD, just like the knowledge of Germanic mythology. I no longer have a right to exist, and yet here I am. Christianity and the Catholic Church, are even completely corrupted. The fact is that Jesus and Mary, simply did not exist before the year 1100 AD. It is all one big lie. In short, our era cannot possibly be based on the birth of Jesus. So the question is: Who started the era? It is time we look at the source, where it all started.

I am no expert in Roman legends, yet it is clear to me that Julius Caesar was the founder of the Roman Empire. He was especially praised for his strategic skills and wisdom. What I discovered, is that this Julius Caesar seemed to have a real obsession with time. For example, he invented the Julian calendar, from which we do not deviate much today. It is also clear that he invented the 12 months, and got a month named after himself, the month of July. However, Julius Caesar was assassinated 44 years before the start of the New Era, so he wasn't the one, who put it all into effect. It was his heiress Emperor Augustus, who tried to restore Julius his honor. While doing so, Augustus also named a month after himself. It was his successor, Emperor Augustus, who restored Julius to honor, and who introduced the start of the new era. As you can see, the true story, is not based on the birth of Jesus, at all.

Constantine the Great.

Around the year 300 AD, we are again confronted with a remarkable figure, his name is Constantine the Great. He would also play a very decisive role in the following story. In this period, the Romans were obsessed about having the ultimate power. They wanted to stand above the Gods. However, they noted that they did not had the ultimate power. The problem that arose was that there were many religions, each with their own gods. The fact was, that the people were more afraid of the judgment of God, than of the judgment of the Roman emperor. The Roman Empire decided to go to war with religion, by starting two religions of their own.

It becomes very clear, that Constantine the Great, suffered from a god complex. He was the first sole ruler of the Eastern Roman Empire. He thought, he was the chosen one. Around the year 330 AD, he claimed to be the son of God. Instead of fighting against religion, he decided to start a religion in his own name, and in the name of his mother Helena. He wanted to be worshiped as a God. Yet, both religions did not last long. The people were not crazy, and did not want to worship Constantine, or his mother. The people stuck to their own gods. Both religions, died out, approximately 150 years after.

The first striking thing about the year 1100 AD, is that the Eastern Roman Empire, dominated Europe. The history of that period is completely unknown. Many important sources and documents, were destroyed. In two hundred years of time, our true past has been erased, and has been replaced by a lie. I would discover that the original Roman Empire came to its end, when it was defeated by a Germanic emperor, in the year 476 AD. You understand that the hatred towards the Germanic tribes, was enormous. Especially when you realize, how proud the Romans were of themselves. In return, many centuries later, they erased Germanic mythology from its existence.

So what exactly did the Eastern Roman Empire do around the year 1100 AD? It becomes clear to me, that they revived some old ideas, to honor their heroes. It is clear that this Empire was completely obsessive about Constantine, even many centuries after his death. They have perpetuated his god complex. In the Eastern Roman Empire, he was a great idol next to Julius Caesar.

The Eastern Roman Empire, made a second attempt at starting two religions, but this time they went to great lengths to first destroy all incriminating material. Constantine was replaced by Jesus Christ, the son of God, and Helena was transformed into Mary. Note this very important fact, before that time, the year 1100 AD, Jesus and Mary, did not exist. Both figures were brought to life from scratch, which means they are completely fictional. All stories that exist about Jesus, were created in the Middle Ages, and after.

The story of the birth of Jesus Christ, seems to contain a hint, who it is actually all about. It was Julius Caesar, who came up with the idea of time. He already wanted to start a new era. How coincidental must it be that Julius Caesar and Jesus Christ, both have the same initials? We are dealing here with Romans, who are extremely proud of themselves. Why would the Romans worship a Jew, instead of someone from their own ranks? They have consciously adopted an identity, that can never be traced back to the Eastern Roman Empire. What is also striking is that the Eastern Roman Empire, transferred its power, to the Vatican shortly afterwards. Many people do not realize this, but the Vatican, has been the most powerful body in the world, for a very long time.

They also learned from their previous mistake. They realized that people did not convert voluntarily, so anyone who resisted was given the death penalty. In short, converting to Christianity and the Catholic Church, was never done by free will, it was done under brute force. They have made people afraid that they would be condemned to a fiery hell if they did not convert to their God. Today, people voluntarily convert because they simply don't know any better. It is shameful, that many have turned a blind eye, towards this dark history. It indicates that the corrupted lie of the Romans, was successfully executed.

In my eyes, the Eastern Roman Empire still lives on, in the form of Christianity and the Catholic Church. They are still the same group of rulers, under a different name and logo. The power now lies within the Vatican, although their actual power has diminished considerably in recent centuries. The Pope has become nothing more, but an ancient symbol. As I mentioned, they have falsified history by cutting off all paths that lead to God. By the Romans, it was all about having the ultimate power. It's all about dominating human thoughts. Astrology was banned, and the Serpent Bearer was erased from existence. When it comes to the Catholic Church and Christianity, the intention from day one, has been to deceive everyone. Their goal has never been to bring you closer to the Gods, in fact, they do the exact opposite. They made people worship the Devil. I am slowly starting to get, why Christianity hated the Serpent Bearer so much. I am the one who can undo their evil.

Babylon.

Not everything is right in Judaism either. I know the Jews consisted of several tribes, who all worshipped different gods. Some of them, openly worshipped the devil. I have to be very clear, I don't have anything against Jews. Still, I am aware of some dark stories considering the Jews. What is a fact, that in those times, the Jews were barbarians and far from civilized. I would discover, that part of Jewish faith, is based on stories, that are a complete lie.

For example, the story about Moses, is completely falsely fabricated by multiple writers. Anyone who studies this story, will find that there have been several writers, who over time have all incorporated their own will and opinion, into that story. The best example of this is circumcision. The story surrounding this phenomenon is insane, as this story claims that Moses his wife is above the will of God. She threatened God and told God what to do, and God apparently listened to her demands. As you can see, is that this story is crazy. Let me also be very clear, circumcising your genitals does not bring you closer to God, you idiots!

I would also go back to the origins of the Jews, and discovered the story about Babylon. The Jews were a bunch of barbarians and were known to commit genocide against Egyptian tribes. The stories in the bible are prove of this behavior. Everything that lived was killed, including children and livestock, except young female virgins. These were sacrificed later.

There was a time, the Jews were held captive in Babylon. Babylon was a center, where many of the world's cultures and religions came together. The tower of Babylon was a ziggurat, which is an elevation in the shape of a plateau, on which a high tower was then built. However, the tower of Babylon would collapse during a very heavy storm. The Jews, who were in captivity at that time, began to worship a new God named YHWH. YHWH is a name that you pronounce as if you inhale briefly, and then exhale strongly. You symbolically blow down the tower. This God, YHWH, is completely dominated by chaos, death, and destruction. In Babylon, his name was forbidden, and the Jews decided to address him only in the form of a title, and his title was the Lord.

The Bible itself, consist of many fragmented stories. Nothing is complete. It happens that the story of Adam and Eve, comes from a far older culture, named the Sumerians. The true story makes way more sense, then the biblical version. What is even more strange, is that the entire Christian Bible, does not say a word about God. Not a single word has been written, about Gods true identity. What is very remarkable, is that this book is written in the name of the Lord. The fact is that he doesn't get addressed by his name, but with a title, just Like the God of destruction YHWH. In short, the bible is written in name of the devil, not God. My conclusion, is that many people have presented themselves as the representative of God, but completely fail to describe the Gods accurately. No prophet comes closer to the story I tell, and I do not consider myself a prophet.

As you can see, Christianity and the Catholic Church, both are completely corrupted, to its deepest roots. Not only do they worship Roman idols, they banned astrology, which is the only way to reach spirituality. So, they deliberately disconnected the only road to God. It gets even worse, once you realize that they made people worship the devil. As you can see, everything they did, was to disrespect God. It is all pure blasphemy, of the highest degree.

My message to Christians and people who are Catholic, start using your common sense. Many claim to be Christian, but it happens to be that I know more about Jesus, than the average Joe. It proves that many of you have never read the bible. You are all being loyal to something you don't know. It might be advisable for everyone, to start using their common sense, and stop hiding behind excuses. My advice would be, to worship the Holy Trinity. Just start over with everything. My knowledge offers you that opportunity. Learn astrology and discover numerology. Learn what spirituality truly means. In this book, I have completely exposed the identity of the Gods. I made things really easy for you. There are simply no excuses left.

Who is the devil?

I have discussed the Gods and their identity, yet there is also the concept of the devil. The story goes that, a right hand of the Gods, began to claim power for herself. She wanted to be as powerful as the Gods. To me, this hints, that the devil has been a representative of the Gods, and the only zodiac sign known to represent the Gods, is Gemini. The devil is a zodiac sign that has gone rebellious. She was therefore banished from the realm of the Gods. In German mythology, she is known as Hel, and in Sumerian terms, she is known as Lilith.

What do I think, is actually going on? The fact is that a heavenly paradise exists. The afterlife indicates that you reach this dimension by entering a portal. The word portal, is used specifically by the dead. The universe also consists of extremes. This means, if one exists, then the other also exists. If there is a heavenly paradise in the name of Odin, then there is also a dimension that is all about chaos, negativity and destruction, in the name of Hel. The afterlife on Earth, indicates that multiple hells exist. The presence of demons indicates this. Hell is a dimension consisting of pure chaos. I suspect that you experience hell, as a very bad dream that has no end.

What I know is that the Gods consist of different constellations. I think I know, what actually happened. A twin of the Gemini, has gone rogue for itself, and taken on the role of being the pure evil counterpart. It is rebellious and does not recognize the power of the Gods. The devil also has several characteristics.

The Gemini is part of the God Odin, and represents the number three. What is very striking is that this Gemini is fighting a battle against the Serpent Bearer. That's not all, the devil has an obsession with the zodiac sign Virgo. Consider the characteristic of sacrificing female virgins. In short, we are dealing with a 369 combination here. It is Gemini (3), opposite Serpent Bearer (9), and there is a battle for Virgo (6). Hel battles against Odin.

For a long time, I accused one of the Gods of being the devil. For a long time, I thought it was Fay because he came up with the true test. My life always hung on a thin line. Yet, I was completely wrong, and I have come to realize that the answer partly lies within myself. The devil is the zodiac sign of Gemini, in its worst sense. I am too, to some extent, a very bad Gemini, yet it is true, that there is a security hidden within me.

The only energy capable of taming the devil, is the Serpent Bearer. My Serpent Bearer controls my Gemini, and actually brings out the positive aspect of the devil. A hint at this is that Thor (Gemini), as a child, was raised by two lightning spirits (the Serpent Bearer). The story refers to a sacred combination. Thor represents destruction in a positive aspect. However, a thunder without counterbalance from a Serpent Bearer, is the sign of pure misery. I bring the thunder in its positive form, by focusing purely on what actually deserves to be demolished, I leave what works, alone. I always strive for the truth, and that's all I care about.

In Germanic mythology, there is the story between Odin and Hel. Both personalities respect each other, and are therefore not inferior to each other. Now that I know that the devil was a representative of the thunder and lightning gods, a lot has become clear to me. Odin and Hel, represent each other's counterpart. They are twins. One creates life and the other does everything she can to destroy it.

Hel is known for being able to predict the future. Odin used to contact her for advice. This is a very important fact. Here also lies the hint of her psychic ability. It is water that gives the gift of clairvoyance. In my eyes, this can only mean one thing, Hel is the subtype of Gemini/Cancer. This deserves some explanation.

When I first came into contact with astrology, I met a writer who in turn divided each zodiac sign into three parts. We have two transitional periods and a pure period. The Gemini zodiac sign, consists of the subtype, Gemini/Taurus, the pure Gemini, and the Gemini/Cancer. I am a Gemini/Taurus type. I find myself on the border of the transition phase. Hel represents Gemini/Cancer.

Hel is very ruthless, jealous, and manipulative. The Gemini energy allows her to change shape. She can change identities. As a Gemini, she has the natural ability, to become one with another body. Like me, Hel represents as Gemini, two gifts. As Gemini/Taurus, I represent clairsentience (air) and claircognizance (earth). Hell represents clairsentience (air) and clairvoyance (water).

As you can see, everything falls into place. Hel can take over people's bodies, and she can predict the future. It is known that spirits often have an obsession with the number three, as it refers to the zodiac sign of Gemini. The relationship with Virgo also becomes obvious, the stamp that the devil has received, is the master number 666. It again refers to a hidden obsession, towards Virgo, or young female virgins.

Now that I have discussed the identity of the devil, It is time for something else. I want to share with you some discoveries I have made, based on the Serpent Bearer and older cultures. I would like to show the connection towards the pure Serpent Bearer and the number 369. I will also discuss my experience with an UFO, and what taste it left in my mouth. These things, I discovered, could be something, or maybe nothing at all. I let you decide.

Old-school.

The remains of the Serpent Bearer.

I have gone into many different directions in the past. I mainly delved into ancient cultures to see how they lived. Furthermore, I like to look at certain things with a fresh perspective, and sometimes see something that the other person may have missed. The Maya and the Aztecs both worshiped the thunder and lightning gods. It's not just that, there also seems to be a reference to the God of the afterlife in Egypt. It may partly be based on an illusion, but everything comes together very coincidentally.

If we look at the Pyramids in Egypt, they are many times older than we think. In fact, the Egyptians did not exist at that time. The Pyramids date from a time and culture, before the disaster, and the Egyptians who claimed to have built it, came after. It is also very striking, that the Pyramids do not contain any hieroglyphs, and they are not tombs either. No mummy has ever been found in a pyramid. It indicates that the ancient Egyptians, saw this as a wonder of the world. They deliberately honored these Pyramids, and then built their temples around them. The claim of the Egyptians, that they built the Pyramids, is therefore completely false. If they had done so, they would have incorporated their secret building techniques, into their temples.

With my biography, I have given you a glimpse into my life. It is a glimpse into the life of a pure Serpent Bearer, or in other words, a natural-born shaman. When I look back on everything, it strikes me, that I have been constantly looking for myself. Everything came about quite unconsciously. Only, at the end of the ride, did I realize what I had been doing all along. Every time I took a new step in exposing my identity, I was still left unsatisfied. I still had the feeling, I was missing something. The latter, was because I still had a long way to go. In total, it took me over 18 years to discover my identity. I think, I have now reached the point, where I have discovered everything.

Numerology and astrology, are very useful for understanding our ancestor's view. Our ancestors were even obsessed with numerology, and you can find many traces of it. I discovered that the Great Mayan calendar, is built around the number 9 and the number 2. By applying the rules of numerology, I was able to figure out the formula in just a minute. The knowledge of numerology can be very useful, especially since our ancestors used it extensively. In this chapter, everything revolves around the Serpent Bearer, and ancient cultures. Not only that, at the end, I will tell you about my UFO experience, because it changed the way I look at our human history.

The Mayan and Aztec calendar.

I discovered numerology at the age of 33, through someone who offered me help. It was during this period, that I started applying simplification to many things, to discover if there were any patterns. It was already in the evening, and I have always been interested in the annual calendar of other cultures. Back then, it was a problem I still had to solve. I was laying in bed, and saw a documentary about the Mayans, which was specifically about their great calendar. This is what I was presented with during the presentation.

The thing about the Mayans is the fact, that they developed a calendar for everything. They made a so-called almanac. Each animal and plant species, had its own calendar. The calendar I'm going to talk about, is known as their Great Calendar. In the documentary, someone gave a presentation about the Great Mayan calendar, and I saw all the numbers passing by. I immediately started investigating, and within a minute, I had unraveled the entire calendar and its formula. The following was what I saw.

No.	Period:	Kin:
1	-	18
2	Tun	360
3	Ka'tun	7.200
4	Bak'tun	144.000
5	Pic'tun	2.880.000
6	Calab'tun	57.600.000
7	Kinchil'tun	1.152.000.000
8	Alau'tun	23.040.000.000
9	Habla'tun	460.800.000.000

The following was what I saw.

No.	Period:	Kin:	Numerology:	Constellation:
1	-	18	(1+8) = 9.	Serpent Bearer.
2	Tun	360	(3+6) = 9.	Serpent Bearer.
3	Ka'tun	7.200	(7+2) = 9.	Serpent Bearer.
4	Bak'tun	144.000	(1+4+4) = 9.	Serpent Bearer.
5	Pic'tun	2.880.000	(2+8+8) = 18 = 9.	Serpent Bearer.
6	Calab'tun	57.600.000	(5+7+6) = 18 = 9.	Serpent Bearer.
7	Kinchil'tun	1.152.000.000	(1+1+5+2) = 9.	Serpent Bearer.
8	Alau'tun	23.040.000.000	(2+3+4) = 9.	Serpent Bearer.
9	Habla'tun	460.800.000.000	(4+6+8) = 18 = 9.	Serpent Bearer.

The formula is as follows: (kin times 2 = ... + 0) = next step. This is how the formula goes. We start with 9, multiply it with 2 and we get the number 18. It appears that the Serpent Bearer, is divided into a male and female version. It indicates being a twin. Here comes the first step:

- 18 x 2 = 36+0 = 360.
- 360 x 2 = 720+0 = 7,200.
- 7,200 x 2 = 14,400 +0 = 144,000.

It only took me a single minute. As you can see, the knowledge of numerology is still very valuable. Think of it as an extra tool you have at your disposal, in addition to normal mathematics. When I made this discovery, I also became interested in the Aztec calendar.

There are a few things going on with this Aztec calendar. After studying, I came across the Serpent Bearer. What makes this sign unique, is that it officially consists of three elements. The main element is air, controlling the elements fire and water. The time we now live in, is the age of Aquarius. It just started, and this period is known for being a lightning element. We live in very special times. It is a period which will last approximately 720 years, and happens to be very rare. The same applies to the God Vili. This rules as Libra, over water and fire elements. Odin and the Serpent Bearer, are therefore not the only lightning gods. The God Vili, and the subtype Aquarius/Pisces, are also.

These same elements of air, water and fire, come together in the northernmost sign of the calendar. The earth element is missing. This specific sign, is the only image in the outer ring, that has an identity and is accompanied by 13 points. These points represent a period. At this sign, the air currents collide, and the water and fire, descend over the head of the central figure, which in my eyes, represents a shaman. This shaman is literally baptized in the elements of fire and water, or in other words, baptized in extremes and paranormal gifts. What the calendar indicates is that this shaman is a saint. Baptism therefore does not originate from the Catholic faith, but is a far older tradition.

This central shaman is not only connected to the north, he is also linked, to the southernmost point. In this case, there are two individuals who look the same, they are the Gemini. This Aztec calendar, addresses the most extreme point of chaos, death, and destruction. The shaman is therefore all about creation and destruction. This pure period has only 2 degrees in its existence, and is therefore very short. It appears that the Aztecs also worshiped the thunder and lightning gods. The calendar therefore, refers to Zeus, or the pure Serpent Bearer. See the serpent heads, pointing towards the east and west, of the central figure. The shaman carries the head and tail of the Serpent, and there is only one constellation that carries the Serpent.

The sacred shaman and the thunder and lightning element.

It may be a coincidence, but there is still a special number included in the calendar. The calendar consists of two different parts. We have different rings. Some represent a unit of time, and the other rings represent images. The central part of the calendar has 7 figures. In the ring that follows, we find 20 characters (2+0=2). The outer ring has 25 images (2+5=7).

Then two things emerge. If we consider this 727 a master number, then we know that this calendar is all about the 999. That's not all, they also worshiped the God of evolution called Vili. If we simplify 727, we end up with a master number 777. This looks like: (7+2+7=16=1+6=7). What you see here is a uniquely legitimate method, for creating a master number. My hairdresser has approximately the same build, and it turns out that he has an obsession with the number 7, or, in other words, the zodiac sign of Libra. In his case, his first name has 7 letters, his middle name has 7 letters, and his last name has 11 letters. In his case, the master number is as follows, (7+7+11=25=2+5=7). Use this knowledge to your advantage, when it comes to creating a name. In short, the calendar represents the 777 (Libra) and the 999 (Serpent Bearer). If you hit the 777 in the casino, you win the jackpot. The Libra, and the Serpent Bearer, both have in common that they represent the lightning element. The 777 is the sign of stability, and the 999 the sign of extremes.

Ancient geometry.

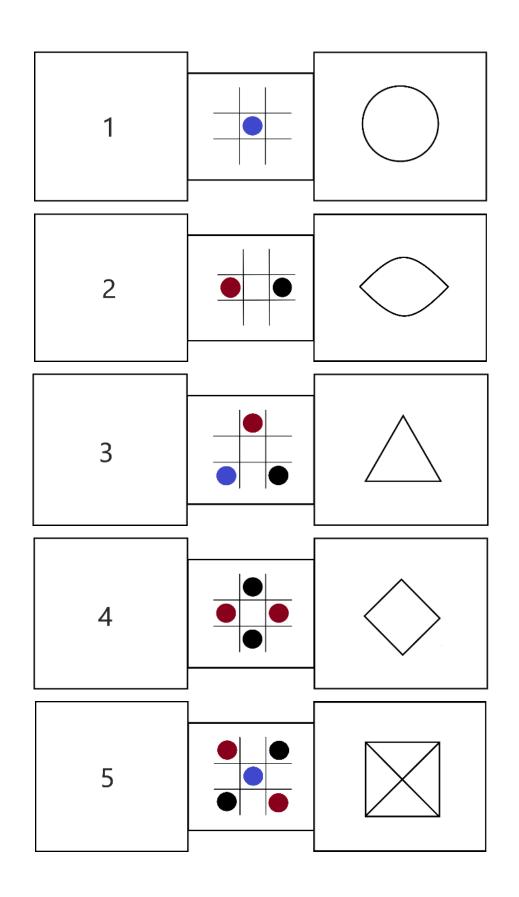

I like to be guided by my impulses. One of those impulses, I once had, had to do with geometry. I wanted to come up with the solution, because the current form must have been too complex for our ancestors. In short, I suspected they had an easier method. I wondered how our ancestors viewed geometry. It must be a model that is easy to figure out. When I started this assignment, I realized that everything had to comply with certain rules.

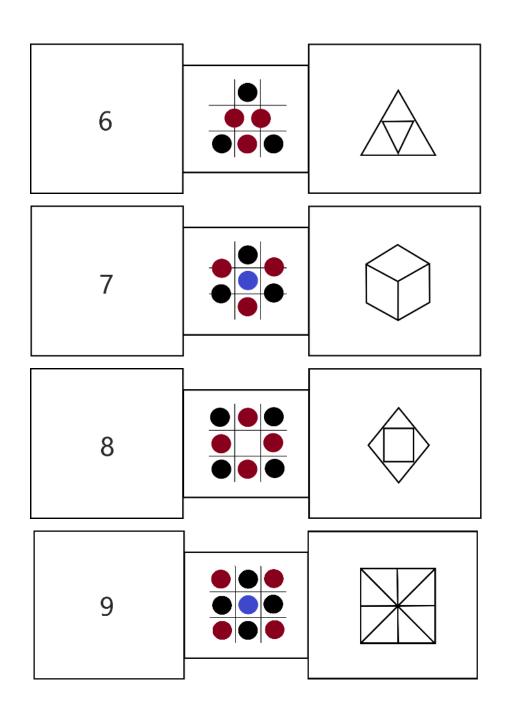

- Rule number one, the figure must always be in balance.
- Rule number two: We have 3 types, neutral, negative, and positive.
- Rule number three: Figure one, as a geometric figure, consists of one connection point. Figure two, consists of two connection points, etc.
- Rule number four: The maximum number consists of 9 figures.

This was at a time when I was not yet familiar with the Gods and their identity. When I was busy solving geometry, I ran into a problem. I used the rule of dualism, and realized that with uneven numbers, the symbol is out of balance. In such a case, I add the neutral marble. There is also an ancient hint. The rumor goes, that life in the universe, started at the third step. It refers to Odin bringing life to the universe. This is also the step, where all three Gods, for the first time, come together as one. If you want to understand the geometric symbols, start at step 3.

There is also something else going on. We have seen, with the Aztecs, that they pray to the lightning Gods. In this case, it is Libra and Serpent Bearer. Libra stands for stability, balance, and equilibrium. In this case, we are only dealing with 9 entities, and not 13. In this case, the number 5, Leo, forms the point of stability, balance, and equilibrium. The Egyptians praised Leo, and the Serpent Bearer.

The following images, will show you my result. Look at it, and let it sink in for a moment. What do you see?

Have you noticed?

From step 3 to step 9, we are shown the construction plans of an Egyptian Pyramid.

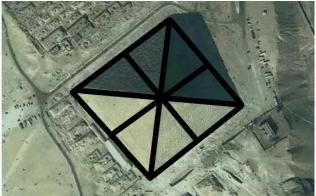

- Step 1: The circle is the sign of infinity.
- Step 2: The all-seeing eye.
- Step 3: The first step of creation. Side view of a pyramid.
- Step 4: The bottom view of a pyramid.
- Step 5: The top view of a pyramid.
- Step 6: Tetrahedron. Fold this figure together, and you get one of the four cornerstones of a pyramid, see figure 5.
- Step 7: Building block of a pyramid.
- Step 8: Expanded pyramid.
- Step 9: The top view of an eight-sided pyramid.

Each Pyramid symbolizes a Lion. It corresponds to the original shape of the Sphinx. There is one Pyramid that differs because it has 8 sides. It is geometric figure nine, and represents the Serpent Bearer. At nine units, Leo represents the point of ultimate balance and equilibrium, replacing the function of Libra. With Leo, everything revolves around loyalty, leadership, and service. It is the symbol of the king.

In the distant past, the Serpent Bearer was known as a constellation. Today, this is no longer recognized. However, if you want to unravel the mystery surrounding the Pyramids, you need to be aware of these 13 constellations and their order. The Serpent Bearer, used to be the most sacred sign that existed. It is all about hidden knowledge and wisdom, and as you may know, knowledge is power. The Pyramids hide a certain frequency, which you can only notice when you look at the map, in combination with geometry.

- There are 6 small Pyramids of geometric figure 5.
- There are 2 medium-sized Pyramids of geometric figure 5, and we have the Sphinx.
- There is a single Pyramid, the largest called Cheops, represented in figure 9.

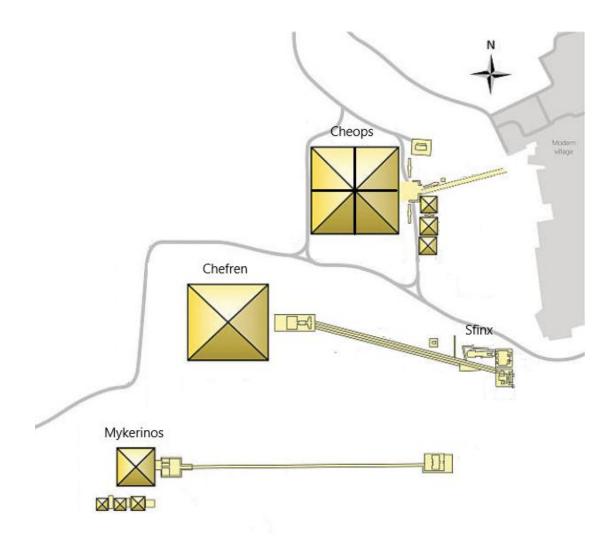

Top view of Cheops, it is a Pyramid with 8 sides.

Here is a calculation that goes from small to large, in combination with numerology:

- 6 small Pyramids times figure 5, = 30 = 3 = Gemini.
- 2 medium Pyramids times figure 5, + Sphinx, = 15 = 6 = Virgo.
- 1 large Pyramid (Cheops) times figure 9 = 9 = Serpent Bearer.
- There are 9 Pyramids in total.

Map of the Egyptian Pyramids.

As you can see, the frequency of 3 6 9 emerges. With contemporary astrology of only 12 constellations, this mystery could never have been unraveled. To me, it is an indication that the Pyramids were built by humanity, and I suspect they had help building it. It is in honor of the God of the afterlife and the millennia-old knowledge of geometry. They were also all about the pure Serpent Bearer, which goes back more than 12,000 years. I base this on their obsession with Leo, which had a period in the year 10,948, before the new era. The Pyramid is therefore many times older, and was not made by the Egyptian people, despite their claim.

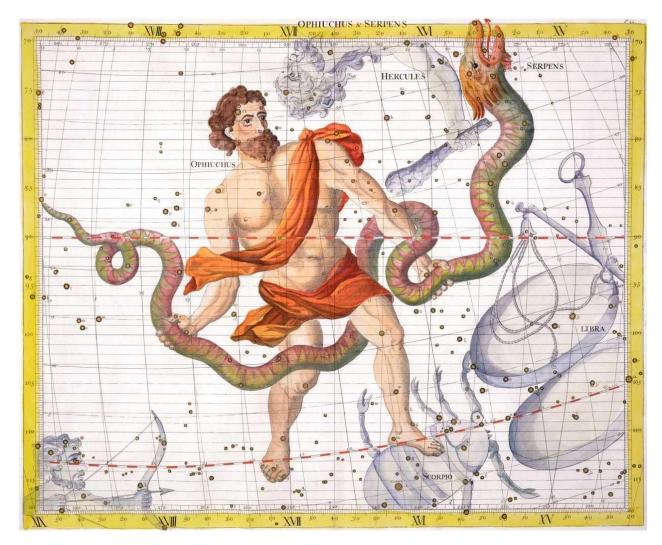

The question is: Am I onto something, or is this all based on a coincidental brain-fart?

Gobekli Tepe.

One of the oldest ruins in the world, has been found in Turkey. This ruin is called Gobekli Tepe. This temple goes back about 11,500 years. Very little is known about this temple, yet I also encountered the Serpent Bearer. Everything revolves, around pillar 43.

In the image, there is a Vulture spreading its wings and at its foot is the Scorpion. The Vulture is the constellation of the Serpent Bearer, which has Scorpio at its foot. The sun resting on the wing of the Vulture, that is the constellation of the Northern Crown, which is known to the ancient Greeks as the temple of Delphi. Note the angle of the wings of the Vulture. These are the same angle as the Serpent in the constellation of the Serpent Bearer. See the picture of pillar 43, and compare these vulture wings, with the angle of the Serpent.

Ophiuchus/Apollo.

It is clear that some constellations and their names are more than 12,000 years old. This is why the Maya and Aztecs knew about it. It is clear that the Serpent Bearer has changed identity many times. In this case it is a Vulture spreading its wings and carrying the Northern Crown on its wing. The Northern Crown, represents the temple of Delphi. In ancient Greek myth, the temple of Delphi was a temple where people could convey their message to the Gods. It is completely dedicated to psychic abilities. The priestess was a Pythia, which refers to the Serpent. She was a medium who stood between humanity and the Gods.

Apollo, in simplicity, represents the constellation of the Serpent Bearer, but the true combination is Apollo and Artemis together. If you look closely at the image, you will see that he is standing on the Scorpion, which stabs him in the foot and poisons him. It is a sign of the wounded healer, and the story surrounding Chiron, from Greek mythology. You see Hercules standing above it, and the story goes that due to Hercules' clumsiness, Chiron became terminally poisoned. He was hit in the foot and as you may have noticed, there can only be one perpetrator: The poison of the Scorpion. Chiron also represents an aspect of the Serpent Bearer, in the form of the wounded healer.

Pillar 43, Gobekli Tepe. A worship of the constellations.

The construction of the Pyramid.

I just discussed the Pyramids in the form of geometry. As you can see, a building plan emerges. This is not the only thing that makes the Pyramids special. It's the way they built it. It is striking that ancient geometry, shows a connection with the Pyramid. It is also very striking that the pyramids themselves, do not contain any hieroglyphs and no mummy has ever been found. The ancient Pyramids are a true mystery to many, but not to me. Here are some miracles.

- The limestone comes from a quarry more than 50 kilometers away. So each stone has traveled a distance of more than 50 kilometers.
- Stones are unbearably heavy and large. Each stone weighs between 2,000 and 50,000 kilos.
- The Great Pyramid alone consists of more than 2,300,000 blocks of limestone. That's just one Pyramid.
- Not only did they manage to transport these stones, but they also managed to stack them extremely high. It is almost as tall as the Eiffel Tower. In fact, the Eiffel Tower was the first monument in the world, to exceed the height of the Great Pyramid.
- They were in possession of a compass, as the Pyramid faces perfectly north. The compass was not rediscovered until 1117 AD.
- They built not one, but several Pyramids in the same time period. It seems that all the Pyramids were built, within a very short time of each other.

I can solve all these wonders with one word: weightlessness. I think my UFO experience, was that of a time traveler. I was able to observe weightlessness with my own eyes. The UFO I saw was the size of two jumbo jets and was perfectly vertical in the sky. It was big and heavy, but hung there as if gravity didn't exist. Weightlessness makes it possible to transport 2,300,000 stones, weighing 50,000 kilos, over a distance of more than 50 kilometers. Not only that, you can also stack them incredibly high, without having to perform all the difficult techniques, and they are quick to build.

However, we have not solved all the problems. We are faced with the problem of cutting a single stone. It takes a very long time with our current technology, and it is also too inaccurate, compared to ancient times. It looks very much like they had laser techniques available, that cut the stone for them. I think I have found a clue to this by chance, on a completely different continent. In this case, we have to move to the United States. I came across a video of someone looking for ancient civilizations. He first found some wall drawings and discovered that the mountain was cut into blocks. The blocks fell apart due to erosion. Just to be clear, he's walking on top of a mountain.

There is also evidence of human activity. If I look closely at the wall drawing, I see the reference to UFOs in it. There is a symbol that comes back a lot and that is the figure consisting of two circles. This symbol consists of an inner and outer ring. It's an energy ball or sphere. This same phenomenon is still observed today, where UFOs bear the appearance of a luminous energy ball. To get back to my point, I would like to specifically emphasize the cutting of the stones.

See the following images.

Ancient wall drawings indicate human activity.

Massive Building Blocks, Monument Valley, United States.

Blocks fall apart due to erosion.

The blocks are pre-cut like a cake. Laser technology?

When it comes to the cutting of the stones, it looks very much like they used laser techniques and computers. All the stones are perfectly next to each other, and I don't think even a piece of paper fits between them. It appears that computers were used, given the perfect cutting. They possessed techniques that we will rediscover in the future. It looks like these pyramids were built by humans, in collaboration with time travelers or even aliens.

I also told something about my UFO experience. What I didn't say is how and when it took place. It was a period, where I started to define my interests. I started turning to, what is true and what is false. I was watching a lot of UFO videos that day, and all of them were computer-generated images. I hate people who mess with me, so I made it very clear, and out loud, that I was done with the subject of UFOs.

Two days later, I have my first and so far, only UFO experience. When I experienced it, I thought to myself: Here we go again! I then walked several laps around my bedroom and repeatedly slapped myself in the face. When I looked again, it was still there and rising, creating a very strong plume of smoke. It drew a thick black line across the sky, and as it disappeared into a cloud, it shot a pulse of air to disperse and erase the black line of smoke. It was intelligent and was aware that I saw it. By the way, my camera had been sabotaged. I took more than 30 photos and only one photo was left in my memory, and it was completely white. I also thought it all looked very human. Yet, this is not the most special thing. It all took place on February 29, 2016, which was on a leap day.

As you can see, we have had times when techniques were used that are completely forgotten today. It looks like we experienced weightlessness, and had laser techniques to cut large stones. The only way you can cut these stones like this is if you hang weightless above them as a machine. Is this a hidden hint at a spacecraft? In short, everything indicates that we have already lived with aliens or time travelers. So it is not new, and it indicates that they are watching us today. They are clearly not going to contact us, yet if they wanted to destroy us, they would have done so. Compared to their knowledge and technology, we as humans have absolutely no chance. Another good example of extraterrestrial contact are the Nazca Lines in Peru. These are old images that you can only see from the air. In short, it is not intended for humans.

Nazca lines, Peru.

Now that I have talked about my personal discoveries, it is time for the last chapter of this book. I am a pure Serpent Bearer. As a shaman, I was chosen to be the messenger of the Gods. The reason I say this has to do with everything I experienced. As you can see I don't have a normal life at all. I have been in contact with the Gods for several times and I got my education from the universe itself, by following my feelings and impulses. It tastes like magic.

I happen to be the actual messiah, and my name is Elmer. I am the one who has to tell humanity about reality and the Gods. While my only mission was to share my paranormal experiences, I actually happened to write the new bible. I actually tell you about God and his true identity. I even explain who the devil is. I teach you about the existence of the afterlife and psychic abilities. Everything comes together in the end. I know my claim is insane, yet I can prove it by astrology and numerology. Let's be real, I didn't chose the moment I was born, and I didn't chose my name. I am just a lucky bastard.

Thunderdome!

Welcome to my Thunderdome!

Finally, the time has come! I have been writing this book for over nine years. I have rewritten this book so many times, that I can hardly look at it anymore. In a sense, I was already starting my final exams, while my studies were just starting. With every attempt I made, I would discover a new piece of the puzzle. For years, I was at the point where I didn't know how to start or how to end my story.

I must also admit that I have often walked around with an illusion. I have been temporarily convinced of things, that ultimately turned out to be untrue. I test everything, but I also give everything a chance to prove itself. If I had published my book earlier, I would have had many errors to correct. I would have walked the path of shame. Now it is true, that I think I have discovered everything that I should know. It would be this last attempt, that the missing pieces of the puzzle, finally became known.

Besides the fact that I had a lot to process, I was also fighting a battle, in the field of communication. I am dyslexic. I experience problems with grammar, and especially sentence structure. I had this problem all my life, but the flight of thoughts, would make it many times worse. I will never recover, but that doesn't mean I won't fight. I see writing as a challenge, and for me, it is a lot like doing a puzzle. I love that I have the time to put everything into words calmly. I'm intelligent, but grammar is something my brain refuses to accept. I had to read my texts repeatedly, to remove as many errors as possible. It is important to me, that I am clear, and that the sentences flow smoothly.

As you have read, I have experienced many things in life. I have been able to experience life in a very broad sense. I have seen almost all of life's secrets, with my own eyes. Little remains hidden. The question I have asked myself for a long time is: Why me? What makes me so special? In this chapter, I will go all out, when it concerns my identity. I have told you who the Gods are, and what the devil represents, now it is my turn. I offer you a glimpse into the life of a pure Serpent Bearer. As a shaman, I am a representative/messenger, of the thunder and lightning gods.

My universal education started around the age of 21. The moment my uncle died was the starting signal. Until then, I had few experiences with psychic abilities, but these also started to become more and more intense, during that same period. I received my first lessons of the afterlife from a demon. I immediately had to deal with the tough stuff. I also had to deal with other forms, such as my spiritual clone. In a period of three years, I have gained a lot of experiences. The penny would finally drop, when I saw there were two dogs in the photo, that had been dead for years. My experiences with the afterlife, has largely stopped since then, but I wouldn't be bored.

Not long after, I could no longer cope with life mentally, and developed a bipolar disorder. I was in a serious burnout and on top of that, I had the flight of thoughts. I was destroyed by two extremes. After the flight of thought, I fell into a 4-year-long depression, and I would discover the value of astrology. After the depression, I was confronted with manic behavior, but I would learn to suppress it. At the age of 33, I was completely stable again, and I would discover numerology. That's where the ball started rolling, and I came closer to unraveling my identity. Yet, the latter is not something I have consciously worked towards. Every impulse I followed, each time led to the identity of the Serpent Bearer. I have also been completely wrong about things for many years. I sometimes overlook something, but once the ball starts rolling, there's no stopping it. Some things just take time, to be processed properly.

In my birth chart, there are several remarkable things going on. For example, it was already predicted that I would rise above religion, and it also stated that I would end up living on benefits. Later in life, I would start to find pleasure in the smaller things in life, and that is true. My life is complex and yet, I am quite simple. I allow everyone to be free, precisely because I attach great value, to being free myself. My life has made it clear to me, that I cannot reach my full potential, when others impose boundaries or obligations on me. It also states, that I would suffer from delusions. Nostradamus was a very strong example of this. This is also the reason why I often look at something for several years, before drawing a conclusion. I have a lot of patience, just waiting for the right moment. I want to see something proven first, because I hate being bullied, with incorrect information.

When it comes to my claim as a representative, I have been aware of this for years. Around the age of 36, the penny would drop. The deeper I went, the stranger things became. All the knowledge I share in this book, I have gained during this quest. I've been looking at this for a long time, trying to get the most out of it. The fact is, that I was not the one who gave me my name, nor did I single-handedly decide, when and where I would be born. In short, this is all beyond my control. Yet it is true, that for me there is rarely a coincidence in life. Everything seems to happen for a reason. It's time we see how pure I am as a Serpent Bearer.

The question is: Am I worthy of the title: The Messenger of the Gods?

Born into conflict.

The first thing I want to talk about is my birth. I was born during pre-eclampsia and it wouldn't have made much difference if I hadn't been there. The doctors had already given up and my mother had to choose between me and her own life. My mother didn't want to give up, and an hour later I was born. I was born on December 2, 1983, Gemini hospital in Den Helder, at 4:00 PM. I arrived an hour late and I was a full month early. Yet I was born exactly when I was supposed to be born. The fighting spirit that my mother showed there is very strong in me. In this life I would learn what taking is and what it means to survive. Yet it was true that my birth was not planned by my father. In a sense, I belong to the group of accidents. The funny thing about this is that the hospital is called the Twins. It is named after my ascendant. It thus shows the link with thunder. I was born during conflict.

My birth time was purposefully determined by fate. Without that fact I would never have discovered all the secrets. I am a pure Serpent Bearer, because fate decreed it so. My sun is Sagittarius, my moon is Scorpio and my ascendant is Gemini. This makes me thunder and lightning, in its purest form. I am especially strongly connected to the zodiac sign of the Snake Bearer. Not only in astrology, also by name. See my analysis here.

See my analysis.

Name frequencies:

- Elmer = 5 3 4 5 9 = 26 = 8 = Scorpio.
- Wierenga = 5 9 5 9 5 5 7 1 = 46 = 10 = Sagittarius.
- Elmer Wierenga = 72 = 9 = Serpent Bearer.

Number of letters:

- Elmer = 5 letters = Leo.
- Wierenga = 8 letters = Scorpio.
- Elmer Wierenga = 13 letters = Pisces.

Titles:

- The name Elmer, is a leader in the field of truth and the occult.
- The name Wierenga, is Sagittarius versus Scorpio, and in that too I represent a pure Serpent Bearer. So my last name is purely about knowledge and wisdom.
- The full name Elmer Wierenga, is a master of knowledge and wisdom, in the field of spirituality.

Yet, this is not all. The name Elmer also has a special meaning.

- EL means God.
- MER is the master number of knowledge and wisdom.
- Elmer means God in knowledge and wisdom.
- EL = 53 = 8 = Scorpio.
- Elmer is God in knowledge and wisdom, in the realms of the occult and truth.

In short, how high can you score on the Serpent Bearer, and the theme of hidden knowledge and wisdom? Even by my standards, this is bizarre. All claims are confirmed in this book, and the story I share. As you can see, my name and my date of birth, match exactly. How lucky do you have to be to get it like this?

Odin.

As you can see, I already have a strong connection with the Serpent Bearer. The titles of my name are known, now it's time for the inner part. I leave out the entire calculation for simplicity. I'll let the final values, speak for itself.

No:	End value:	Constellation:	Keywords:
1	-9%	Aries	Life energy and action oriented.
2	0%	Taurus	Patience and perseverance.
3	-15,7%	Gemini	Communication and flexibility.
4	-9%	Cancer	Care and emotions.
5	76,1%	Leo	Leadership and service.
6	0%	Virgo	Perfection and solution-oriented.
7	-9%	Libra	Balance and harmony.
8	10%	Scorpio	Truth and the Occult.
9	16,4%	Serpent Bearer	Knowledge and wisdom.
10	-9%	Sagittarius	Freedom and justice.
11	0%	Capricorn.	Reliability and discipline.
12	-15,7%	Aquarius	Innovative and rebellious.

13	-9%	Pisces.	Spirituality and fantasy.
----	-----	---------	---------------------------

My table shows my relationship with other zodiac signs. There are three special things to observe. The first thing that stands out is that I have a negative score of minus 9%, on all constellations that belong to Vili, the God of life. For me it is a reference that indicates, that I belong to death or the afterlife. It is the first reference to Odin. Odin has a good relationship with Fay, because Odin is crazy about animals. I score positively on Fay, which indicates that I am an animal lover. I care about all life.

The second special thing about my construction is that I master all earth elements. I score the 0% value on all. So I have these zodiac signs and their qualities as an extra. It also indicates that I am connected to mother Earth. Virgo in particular, plays a decisive role when it comes to Odin. She provides her support as a woman and complements Odin. Lightning consists of the element air, supplemented with fire and water. My thunder rules over the elements of air, supplemented by earth. This connection with the earth elements makes me complete. So I represent all the elements.

The third hint is very well hidden. In this case we need to look at the totem animals that my name possesses. I once woke up with the feeling that I had to make a model of totem animals. It was some kind of urge, and I followed it. I quickly realized that totem animals, always represent animals that appear in your immediate environment. So there are no crocodiles or tigers. After fifteen minutes of brainstorming, I came up with the following model.

No.	Totem animal:	Constellation:	Keywords:
1	Beaver	Aries	Life energy and action oriented.
2	Boar	Taurus	Patience and perseverance.
3	Magpie	Gemini	Communication and flexibility.
4	Swan	Cancer	Care and emotions.
5	Wolf	Leo	Leadership and service.
6	Deer	Virgin	Perfection and solution-oriented.
7	Heron	Libra	Balance and harmony.
8	Crow	Scorpio	Truth and the Occult.
9	Owl	Serpent Bearer	Knowledge and wisdom.

At that time, I was busy looking for new techniques, and I came up with the idea to see which totem animals make up my name. It started as an innocent idea. I used the model I had just created. I chased a feeling, and the following is what it led to. To understand the following, I am now going to divide my name into parts.

- EL = 53 = 8 = Crow.
- MER = 459 = 9 9 9 = Owl.
- WIE = 595 = 5 5 5 = Wolf.
- REN = 955 = 5 5 5 = Wolf.
- GA = 71 = 8 = Crow.

Symbolically, I carry two crows on my shoulders. I am a master of knowledge and wisdom, supported by two wolves. I carry the exact same totem animals as Odin. My name Elmer Wierenga, is Odin's other identity. However, years later I noticed something that confirmed my suspicion. In my analysis of Odin's formula, I only score positive on my totem animals, and the rest are negative or master.

- Crow = 10%
- Wolf = 76.1%
- Owl = 16.4%

Odin's animals represent his aspect of knowledge and wisdom. The crows named Huginn and Muninn, represent the concept of thought and memory. It refers to mental capabilities. The two wolves, Geri and Freki, together represent insatiable lust. In total, the animals represent a master who has an insatiable lust for knowledge and wisdom. My brain never stands still. In situations where things do come to a standstill, I experience depression. I therefore have to constantly focus my thoughts on something, in order to be able to relax. However, I have noticed that when I do too much, I get a migraine for a few days, forcing me to rest.

As you can see, my name is full of synergy towards being a pure Serpent Bearer. In fact, my name is Elmer and I am Odin, representative of the afterlife and the final judgment. Now you could say that based on my name I score very well on the title: Messenger of the Gods. We are not there yet. Astrology also plays a very decisive role in being a Serpent Bearer. The placement of my sun, moon and ascendant says enough, but we also have to look at the position of the planets.

It all gets even crazier.

Enter the dome...

All my planets are divided between the constellations of Libra, Scorpio, and Sagittarius. This also indicates that I was born with a specialty. I may not be able to do much, but what I can do, I can do pretty well. For me, everything is all about making my own judgement. I simply cannot lean on others. I have to do everything myself.

As I have already indicated several times, the Serpent Bearer consists of extremes. This is also the case in my horoscope. All celestial bodies known for their negativity, the moon, Saturn and Pluto, belong to Scorpio. Saturn is known for being the counter to Jupiter. Jupiter, on the other hand, is carried by Sagittarius. In short, the duality that was already intense between Sagittarius and Scorpio, is made even more intense by the placement of the planets.

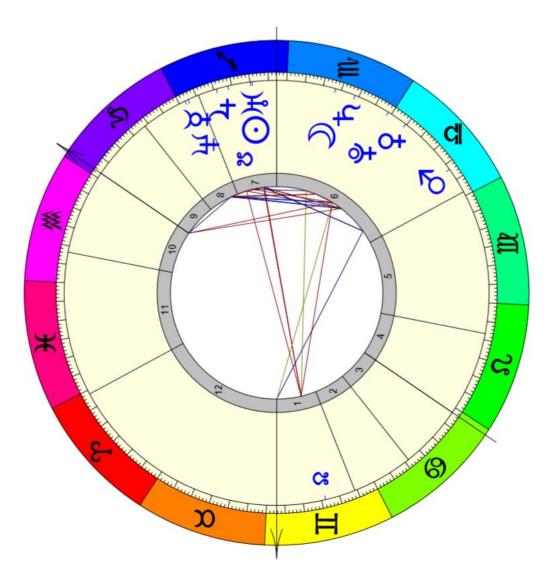

When I look at the period of the Serpent Bearer, which is 13 degrees, my planets play around it. None of them touch this interim period. If that had been the case, let's say my sun was in this period, then I would not have been a pure Serpent Bearer. Yet, if we look at the boundary of the beginning of house 7 (the extreme north) and the placement of the ascendant (the extreme south), I do fall within this boundary, which means that I once again score a pure Serpent Bearer.

What has been unknown for me for a long time, is that the planet Jupiter is unaspected. It does not connect to the other planets, and is therefore very pure. In astrology, this phenomenon is rare. The Greeks worshiped the constellations, and the Romans worshiped the planets. The main planet of the Romans was Jupiter, and it was considered a thunder and lightning god. In short, I am next to an Odin, a true Jupiter. I found the following description about Jupiter on the internet, and it comes from the Dutch website Happinez.

Here follows a description.

Jupiter is a wise guru, but he can also blindly follow an ideal. Putting things into perspective is not his strong suit. He is a sage, not a scientist. Some children are born wise. As if they have gained that wisdom in previous lives. These are children of Jupiter. Others must make mistakes before their wisdom can emerge. They learn their Jupiter power when they realize that they have made a mistake and can forgive themselves for it. The wise lesson has been learned, they are not broken or bitter, and they confidently continue their path in life. Jupiter is the planet of world travelers, who feel at home everywhere. They are philosophers, gurus and teachers, who pass on their wisdom to others.

My birth chart.

The feeling that belongs to Jupiter is optimism. If you are confident that the outcome will be good, if you are sure that you will soon find a parking space in front of your door, then you are using the energy of Jupiter. He is the champion of positive thinking. That is why it is often considered a planet that brings luck. That happiness comes in two ways. On the one hand, he invites happiness with his limitless optimism, on the other hand, he does not let a setback discourage him because the glass is always half full. So say thank you to your Jupiter, if you can see your setback as a stroke of luck or life lesson.

In the sign of Sagittarius, Jupiter is completely at ease. There, in his comfort zone, he shows his best side. This means that gathering wisdom through travel and study, becomes your way to achieve hope, faith, and connection. This can be done by visiting distant countries, but it can also be done by traveling in the mind, and in time.

The fact that you always seem to be able to draw on an infinite source of wisdom, is your greatest support in life. That helps you to cope with everything. When you are young, you may have the tendency to consume the words of philosophers. It doesn't matter which movement they represent. You want to fill yourself with knowledge so that you can draw your own wise conclusions. Once you are ready, you can emerge as a fantastic teacher. Someone who inspires others with the insights you have gained during your long life journey.

This previous description, is quite on point. As you can see, I am a spiritual teacher, and I live up to my titles. I consider myself a representative because I score in every possible area. In short, the Maya worship the Serpent Bearer. I am a natural-born shaman, and I represent Zeus, Apollo, and Chiron. The Pyramids are all about the 369. The Romans worship the planet Jupiter, and in Germanic mythology, I represent Odin. I score them all, like being a supreme god. The question is: Do I qualify as a son of the thunder and lightning Gods?

Destiny.

- The last thing I want to share with you is my purpose in life. In this case, I would like to focus on information, that almost no birth chart has, but is nevertheless of priceless value. Not only is it difficult to find, more importantly, it reflects the journey I have had to travel. Keep in mind that the vast majority has already happened, and a small part still needs to take place. As a human being, I cannot provide more openness, than this.
- So I have decided to go one step deeper and give you insight into my assignment. It is 100% correct. You can see all the claims confirmed by the topics I have discussed in this book. Here is a brief overview of my destiny. It is what I must strive for, in order to be successful in life. This is my fate.
- DESTINATION: Descend from the ivory tower.
- DESTINATION: Take the initiative yourself.
- DESTINATION: Your assignment.
- DESTINATION: Mother Earth.
- DESTINATION: Wisdom.
- DESTINATION: The reformer.
- DESTINATION: Survival in extremity.
- DESTINATION: Transformation.

Destination: Descend from the ivory tower.

At some point in your career, a reorientation towards education and learning will take place, and the emphasis will shift to the power of images and the spoken or written word. Earlier in your career, there may be a tendency to cultivate a proud distance from others, especially regarding your willingness to learn. Perhaps you consider yourself a free spirit who does not wish to be influenced by trivial contacts. In extreme cases, you can be glib or loud, and offend others with your cutting remarks. However, you will discover that your career will benefit if you are more modest and especially if you maintain contacts with others, and build a valuable communication network. It will also be rewarding to focus on your basic education and skills, rather than striving for intellectual laurels.

Themes surrounding intelligence and learning play a special role in your personal development, with a shift from intellectual elitism, to a more sympathetic everydayness, over the course of your life. Your attempts to project an air of wisdom often end in painful failures. True satisfaction, on the other hand, is found when you meet people at their level and listen to them modestly and sincerely and learn from them. Humor at the expense of others, a boisterous manner, and a general attitude of intellectual superiority, give way later in life to a genuine appreciation of everyday contact with others. You will then find satisfaction in working together on communicative projects. At a younger age, you long intensely for distant horizons, and your freedom comes before everything else. In old age, to your great surprise, you find satisfaction in the simple pleasures of your environment, in a more limited sense.

Destination: Take the initiative yourself.

Finding a balanced answer to the question of whether you should put your energy into your relationships, or into personal development, is an important life theme for you. Professionally, this theme can manifest itself in the fate of important partnerships, where over-dependence, and a tendency to compromise one's personal beliefs, can lead to failure. You may only be successful if you dare to go your own way, although you may be well into your thirties before you learn this. You will then realize that playing second fiddle, is not for you, because it restricts your autonomy too much. You no longer wish to leave the fate of your career in someone else's hands, and aspire to hold a leadership position or be your own boss.

Chances are that you committed yourself to a fairly long-term intimate relationship, at a young age. Although this initially offers you considerable security, you will probably later become annoyed, by the loss of personal freedom. You find that the more you give, the more others will use you for their own benefits. A turning point occurs, more precisely around the age of 37, when you come to the conclusion that you can no longer accept living on other people's terms. You become happy when you focus your attention on fulfilling truly personal needs, even if you risk others, thinking you are selfish. By focusing on your self-development you achieve an inner balance, which also makes your relationships more successful. Your destiny is to break with conditioned and outdated ideas about relationships.

Destination: My assignment.

It may be beneficial for you to take on a prominent role in relation to specific groups of people. You could be an example to others and thereby profoundly influence their lives. How this works depends on the placement in the character and house.

Contacts with others will play an important role in your search for your inner identity. Father figures, by their presence or by their disappearance, force you to ask yourself many questions about the nature of your existence, which in time will lead to new spiritual growth and vision. Influential people and, later in life, spiritual authorities, can fade into the background for you, after sudden inner realizations. Moments of inner darkness, alternate with the blinding light of Truth.

Destination: Mother Earth.

You can play an important role in channeling the hopes and dreams, of large numbers of people on the one hand, and more intimate groups on the other, especially women. You may identify strongly with your homeland, or perhaps feel an urge to leave it behind. With your unusual intuitive gifts, you have a keen sense of changes taking place on a collective level, especially in connection with the natural world. You are the channel through which group feelings, manifest itself.

Managing your emotional relationships takes almost a day's work. As a woman, you will be driven by the primitive archetypal urges of the feminine energy in nature; as a man, you will be attracted to earth divas because you need to feel the emotional forces flowing through you at full strength. More than once, you will be swept away by the universal force of emotional attraction or dependence.

Sudden changes can take you far from home. Finally, you grow in your life when you learn to orient yourself, in the world of your feelings and unconscious mind.

Destination: Wisdom.

You may be contacted for advice in various areas. With your good judgment and vision of the future, you could gain an influential position, in a large group or organization. You may become involved in social projects on a large scale, although there is a danger that you will be carried away by a chimera, under the influence of the wrong ideology. Over the years you come to realize more and more how empty prestige and adulation actually are, and at some point you may seek refuge in a place of reflection.

You might seem like a larger-than-life figure, in the circles you move in. You gravitate toward people who possess influence and power, whether it be financial, social, or intellectual. Meeting people you respect for their views and opinions, is an important formative process throughout your life. You tend to ramble on when you promote your own philosophical ideas, but later in life, perhaps through some religious experience, you might develop a more meditative attitude, towards the nature of truth.

Destination: The reformer.

Exciting things are happening around you, wherever you are, and you are destined to inspire action in the groups and organizations, you are a part of. You are a force for innovation in situations of stagnation, and can channel a message of inspiration or renewal. On the other hand, you often tend to light the fuse in order to initiate change. There may be an element of extremism in your character, which may make you attracted to extremist groups or people on the fringes of society. Setting a good example is important to you.

You possess a magnetic charisma, which can be very inspiring, to the people who meet you. Nevertheless, you are just as likely to exert a disruptive influence, so that even though others may seek inspiration from you, in the long run they feel uneasy around you. It is also your destiny to be a provocateur. In your view, you simply cannot make things too easy for people. You are a force for change, and in particular you may lean towards new-age disciplines, such as working with subtle energies, etc. Intermittently, dramatic changes in consciousness occur in your life, which sweep the ground away from under your feet, and take you headfirst into the clouds.

Destination: Survival in extremity.

You exude authority in your social relationships and may become involved in groups or organizations of a clandestine nature, which exert a powerful but hidden influence over the masses of society. You will have a role to play in times of great upheaval; often you will be called to lead or oversee transformative forces, far beyond the power of normal institutions, when, by the hand of fate, the once secure structures of society are crushed.

The course of your life can be changed by profound uprootings or radical transformations, at key moments in your development. You will be exposed in some way to the destructive forces in society, or to the demons of fate within, which may force you to make ruthless decisions in order to ensure your survival. Archetypal memories of death or destruction can haunt your unconscious mind. You will also likely have a hard time socially, as you instill fear or sexual undercurrents in others. You will be no stranger to loss. On the other hand, it takes no effort at all, to turn your back on your past, and start all over again.

Destination: Transformation.

You are possessed by a compulsive urge to achieve success or acquire power and invest much of your energy in your ambitions. A radical transformation at an older age leads to a complete reorientation on what you actually want to achieve. Possibly because you realize that until then you have unconsciously tried to realize the ambitions of one of your parents. You have a talent for psychology and the paranormal. In addition, you can exercise power, although you tend to be autocratic in this regard.

Themes surrounding your parents and/or ancestors, have a profound influence on your sense of life direction. Perhaps you long to break free from the hold that inherited factors keep you alive. An obsessive need to reorganize your environment, can lead to you disrupting your family and seeking out new professional challenges. As a result of secrets and abuse of power in your youth, you may be suspicious of the motives of those close to you, both at work and in your home life. There is a good chance that there will be a very significant crisis of change, after which things will be completely changed.

Endnote: Am I crazy, or maybe not so crazy after all?

I started the story by showing my wounded side, in order to deal with the negative, and also because I don't have to keep falling back on it. I hope it's clear that I too, am not immune to illness. I am just a simple human being, made of flesh and blood. In addition, I immediately wanted to confront existing taboos, such as the afterlife, and psychic abilities. It is a subject that my life revolves around, but it receives no recognition.

I have personally experienced that astrology, can have a healing effect on you. Astrology helped me get rid of my depression. It has proven its worth to me. Yet, spirituality is not complete without the knowledge of numerology. Astrology and numerology, are twins. They both carry equal value, and play the dance together. Spirituality is about developing your own unique character. Learn to use yourself to your fullest potential. It is the key to happiness, and brings you closer to the Gods. This also means, that every person has its own manual.

Then I finally discovered what the 213 referred to, and this added a completely new chapter to my book. I had planned to tackle religion anyway, but would only ask the question many years later: Who is God? When I found the story from Germanic mythology, everything fell in place very quickly. Finding out the identity of the Gods, only took me three minutes, thanks to my knowledge of astrology and numerology. In fact, astrology and numerology, is theology.

While writing this, I started to wonder who the devil really was. For a long time, I was completely wrong. The joke, however, is that the answer has been hiding inside me all along. Odin represents the 369 in a positive form, and Hel chooses to harness everything bad about the 369. The only one who can fight the devil, is Odin.

Unintentionally, I wrote a Bible, but this time, one that comes very close to reality. However, it was never my intention to do this. Everything just came together on its own. My entire book revolves around the life of a pure Serpent Bearer. Everything revolves around death, and resurrection. For astrologers and numerologists, I am a gold mine.

In this last chapter, I revealed my identity. I let the stars speak for themselves. This also serves the purpose, of showing what my life is all about as a pure Serpent Bearer. It is my evidence for my claim, as a representative of the thunder and lightning gods. As you have seen, in many ancient cultures I score the supreme god. As I mentioned before, I score on everything, and there's no way I could make it any more pure. Yet, I did not decide when I would be born and where. It were also my parents, who gave me this name.

My birth wasn't an accident, it was all meant to be. Everything I experienced in life, was a puzzle piece. Things are rarely based on a coincidence. Everything seems to happen for a reason. The funny story, is that I never knew what to become in life. I was living life without a set goal. At the age of 36, I discovered I was a shaman, and finally things started to fall in place. In the end, I am proud of being one. I got the honor of the universe itself. By following my intuition, I would get many steps closer to the truth. At this moment, it feels like I am done. My study seems complete, and I am prepared for the next step in life.

Remember one thing: I am a child of the constellations, or God, and so are you.

-End-

Stand my ground.

I can see, when you stay low nothing happens.

Does it feel right?

Late at night, things I thought I put behind me, haunt my mind! I just know there's no escape now, once it sets its eyes on you, but I won't run, have to stare it in the eye!

Stand my ground, I won't give in!
No more denying, I got to face it!
Won't close my eyes and hide the truth inside!
If I don't make it, someone else will, stand my ground!

It's all around, getting stronger, coming closer, into my world.

I can feel, that it's time for me to face it,

Can I take it?

Though this might just be the ending, of the life I held so dear, But I won't run, there's no turning back from here!

Stand my ground, I won't give in!
No more denying, I got to face it!
Won't close my eyes and hide the truth inside!
If I don't make it, someone else will, stand my ground!

All I know for sure is that I'm trying, I will always stand my ground...

Stand my ground, I won't give in, I won't give up!
No more denying, I got to face it!
Won't close my eyes and hide the truth inside!
If I don't make it, someone else will...

Stand my ground, I won't give in!

No more denying, I got to face it!

Won't close my eyes and hide the truth inside!

If I don't make it, someone else will, stand my ground...
